

The University of Michigan Press

Promotional Blueprint

We are delighted that you have chosen to publish your manuscript with the University of Michigan Press. We look forward to working closely with you as we proceed through the publishing process.

Our first matter of business in this process is to ask you for information that will be used to enter your title information into our database, to catalog your book in the Library of Congress, and to register the copyright. It also assists the University of Michigan Press in gathering information that will be used to ensure we develop an informed and relevant promotion plan tailored to you, and your book. This information will be used primarily by the Editorial, Production, and Marketing departments of the Press.

Please complete this form and return it to us as quickly as possible. Thank you for your cooperation. We will endeavor to make your publishing experience with the University of Michigan Press a rewarding one.

Personal Information

Full name (first, middle, last):

Name as you would like it on the book:

Tentative title of the book:

Date (month/day/year) and place of birth (for Library of Congress forms):

Home address, including zip code

Office address, including zip code

Home telephone number:

Office telephone number:

E-mail address:

Do you wish correspondence to be sent to your home rather than your office? Home Office

Professional Information

Current position (as you would like it to read on promotional materials for the book):

Do you have a faculty page or professional homepage? If so, what is the URL?

Do you have an ORCID profile? If so, please enter your ORCID here. If not, please create one at <https://orcid.org/> and enter it here.

Professional awards, honors, and other citations:

Books published: (Title / Publisher / Year)

Which societies and organizations do you belong to?

Please list any upcoming conferences or exhibits you will be attending, domestically and internationally:

We ask that you please provide a current CV along with this form. We may use it for award nominations.

Advance Promotional Information

Summary sentence (or two) about your book:

Please provide two to three main points about your book that should be emphasized in marketing and promotional materials:

Please provide an introductory paragraph (300-500 words) to interest the nonspecialist, the general reader, the librarian, and/or the bookseller in the book and subject.

Please provide a brief factual and informative paragraph (300-500 words) for the specialist, by describing the main items or areas covered by the book. What is unique about your book? What materials -- such as illustrations, organization, theories -- might attract your academic colleagues?

In an effort to enhance your book's presence on the Web and its ability to be found by using various search engines such as Google, please provide a list of at least twenty keywords and/or phrases that describe your book.

Reviews, Publicity, and Awards

Please list three to five people, and their affiliations, whom we could approach for a promotional statement. They should be chosen to represent the book to the different reader groups you hope to attract to your work.

Please list the most important publications for review of your book. (Please be sure to put them in order of most to the least important to you.)

Please list name and website of up to 3 prizes or awards that your book is most appropriate for: (Please be sure to put them in order of most to the least important to you, especially if you list more than 3. We will decide based on the awards' relevance, entry fees, and copies required.)

Are you interested in writing a piece for the Press blog site? If yes, what would you cover? Is time-sensitive?

Do you have any personal contacts with organizations, associations, businesses, etc. that might be interested in purchasing bulk quantities of your book for distribution? Do you have access to mailing lists of such groups? If so, please provide contact details.

Contact Name	Organization	E-mail	Phone

Foreign Rights

Your book may become part of our rights list, a compilation of book descriptions sent regularly to foreign-language, British, and other English-language publishers outside of North America, with the intent of selling translation and/or distribution rights. We have international representation from Eurospan and the University of Chicago, and work regularly with aggregators like JSTOR, Project Muse, and others that expand our international reach. Please note any information that may assist us in interesting these presses in your book.

Other/Next Steps

Is there anything else you wanted us to know about you or your book?

You will be contacted by our marketing department with more information and suggestions about using social media and other ways to share information about your book with colleagues. Please let us know if you have any questions in the meantime, and we look forward to publishing and promoting your book!