Answer Key

Unit 1

Discover the Grammar (pages 3–4)

1. teach is simple present tense. We use it for an action that is always true. have taught is present perfect tense. We use it for an action that began in the past and continues now. taught is simple past tense. We use it for a past action that is not true now.

2. We use simple present tense because these actions are always true.

3. Verbs in simple present tense end in –s when the subject is he, she, or it. We use –es in finishes because finish ends in –sh; we use –s with start because it ends in –t.

4. We use present progressive tense with these verbs because the actions are happening now.

5. Some verbs (like, look, own) don’t use –ing very much because they are not true actions.

6. We use going to when we talk about a future action.

7. We use signed because here we are talking about an action that is finished. No, the other verb tenses are not possible here because they are for very different times (right now, every day, future, past action that continues).

Venice, Italy, is a popular city for tourists to visit because of its beautiful buildings and quiet canals. However, the sea level is rising, and Venice is slowly sinking into THE Adriatic Sea. There has been an average of 100 floods per year. Scientists say the water is rising because of global warming. Italy has an unusual plan to save the city. The city hopes to build large gates that will fill with the AIR when the water level rises and then push the water back. A THE plan is expensive, but Italy hopes it will save Venice.

Do you remember your first visit to the ocean? Can you recall what you first felt when your eyes saw the endless water? In July 2010, I went with my family from Chicago to Miami. It was the first time that I saw the ocean. Wow! The ocean waves were so blue and warm. It looked beautiful, just like in a postcard. I jumped in the water and swam like a fish. Then I lay down on the white sand and heard the sound of the waves for the first time. It was an awesome feeling. Listening to the waves crash one after the other was so relaxing. Later that afternoon, my family and I made a sandcastle and took lots of pictures. I felt so happy at the beach with my family. We had such a nice time! In fact, when the sun set, I really didn’t want to go home to Chicago.

Corrections are capitalized.

Last night my husband and I celebrated our tenth wedding anniversary with a SPECIAL dinner special at a nice restaurant. Our reservation was for 7:30, so I started getting ready around 6. Before leaving our house, I put on a beautiful new dress for this SPECIAL occasion special. Even my husband, who rarely notices clothing, commented on how nice my dress looked. We drove downtown to the restaurant and found a great PARKING space parking near the front door. I didn’t think I was nervous, but it was a very special evening, so I guess I was a little nervous. My husband ordered a STEAK dinner steak, and I ordered spaghetti and meatballs. Everything was going well until our food came. I started eating my spaghetti, but I accidentally dropped a meatball. Unfortunately, the meatball landed on my beautiful dress, and of course it left a RED stain red from the TOMATO sauce tomato. I tried hard not to think about how expensive the dress was, but I couldn’t stop myself. We had a great dinner, but I’ll never forget this WEDDING anniversary wedding and my MEATBALL dinner meatball.

Part 2. Corrections are capitalized.

Bookstores can be a popular place to spend time. In the past, bookstores were a place only for shopping. Today, people go to bookstores for many reason REASONS. The most popular one ONES have coffee shops inside where you can order your favorite coffee drink or tea. Others have big, comfortable couches where you can sit and study. Other ANOTHER new trend is that some bookstores don’t make you buy the book. You can sit at the store and read a book from the shelf. Other ANOTHER reason people visit a bookstore is to meet friends. Some people don’t even look at the books in the bookstore. They go to the coffee shop just to meet their friends. Although many people like bookstores, other OTHERS prefer to buy e-books instead of going to the bookstore. E-books are electronic books. They are different from the other one ONES because you download them on your computer or e-reader. An e-reader can hold hundreds of books. With e-books, you can take your bookstore anywhere.

Part 2. Corrections are capitalized.

Three weeks ago, I saw a movie called Victory. It was very interesting. However, last night I saw another movie that I also enjoyed. The title of this second movie is Behind the Wall. I think this movie was most MORE interesting than Victory. Both movies are about a war in the early 1900s, but Behind the Wall was more BETTER.

Some people don’t want to see Behind the Wall because it is so longer LONG. At first, I thought Victory was a long movie. It is 90 minutes long, but Behind the Wall is longer from THAN Victory. At 2 hours and 50 minutes, Behind the Wall was in fact almost twice as long as Victory.

To be honest, I also enjoyed Behind the Wall because I found it more easy EASIER to understand. The actors in the second movie acted more well BETTER. Some parts of Behind the Wall were difficult for me to watch, but this was not true with Victory.

I have a huge Spanish exam tomorrow, so I’m going to ask my best friend Staci to help me study for it. Staci is really good at languages. She should be able to help me with the irregular verbs that might appear on the exam. There are other students in the class that I could ask, but Staci is the best person because she is able to explain things really well. I haven’t called her yet to ask her to help me, so I’d better call her soon before someone else asks her for her help. I’m sure that with Staci’s help, I will do much better on the exam.
