

Acknowledgments

THE ESSAYS in this volume started life as lectures for the students at Warren Wilson's MFA Program in Writing. I'm grateful to the staff and members of that program for offering me, through the years, a reason to compose my thoughts on writing matters. I'm particularly grateful to Peter Turchi, who not only hired me to teach in the program but also suggested I collect my essays in book form and then graciously led me to a publisher.

Thanks, too, to the editors of the The Writer's Chronicle for first publishing many of the essays in this volume; to Julie Checkoway for commissioning "Triggers in Fiction" for her anthology Creating Fiction (Cincinnati: Story Press, 1999); and to Charles Baxter and Peter Turchi for reprinting "Getting In and Getting Out" in Bringing the Devil to His Knees: The Craft of Fiction and the Writing Life (Ann Arbor: University of Michigan Press, 2001).

Finally, this book is dedicated to Garry Mitchell, my husband and always patient first reader.

THE ESSAYS and articles in this book originally appeared in the following publications: "The Trigger: What Gives Rise to a Story?" appeared in Creating Fiction: A Complete Guide from Great Writers and Teachers of AWP, ed. Julie Checkoway (Cincinnati: Story Press, 1999). "Getting In and Getting Out: First Words on First (and Last) Words" appeared in The Writer's Chronicle (May 1997) and was reprinted in Bringing the Devil to His Knees: The Craft of Fiction and the Writing Life, ed. Charles Baxter and Peter Turchi (Ann Arbor: University of Michigan Press, 2001). "Cry, Cry, Cry: Handling Emotion in Fiction” appeared in The Writer’s Chronicle (December 2000). “Curious Attractions: Magical Realism’s Fate in the States” appeared in The Writer’s Chronicle (December 1996). “Aspects of the Short Novel” appeared in The Writer’s Chronicle (May 1999). “Stand Back” appeared in The Writer’s Chronicle (May/Summer 2005). “Cheer Up—Why Don’t You?” appeared in The Writer’s Chronicle (October 2002).