

Contributors

R. Michael Alvarez is professor of political science at the California Institute of Technology.

Stephen Ansolabehere is professor of political science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Larry M. Bartels is Donald E. Stokes Professor of Public and International Affairs and director of the Center for the Study of Democratic Politics at Princeton University.

André Blais holds the Canada Research Chair in Electoral Studies and is professeur titulaire of political science at the Université de Montréal.

Henry E. Brady is Class of 1941 Monroe Deutsch Professor of Political Science and Public Policy and director of the Survey Research Center and of UC DATA at the University of California, Berkeley.

Laurel Elms is a doctoral student at the University of California, Berkeley.

Joanna Everitt is associate professor of political science at the University of New Brunswick, St. John.

Patrick Fournier is professeur adjoint in political science at the Université de Montréal.

Elisabeth Gidengil is professor of political science at McGill University.

Benjamin Highton is associate professor of political science at the University of California, Davis.

Gary C. Jacobson is professor of political science at the University of California, San Diego.

Richard Jenkins is corporate director of public opinion research at TNS Canadian Facts.

Richard Johnston is professor of political science and Distinguished University Scholar at the University of British Columbia.

Neil Nevitte is professor of political science at the University of Toronto.

Alexandra Shankster is a doctoral student at the University of California, San Diego.

John Sides is assistant professor of political science at George Washington University.

Paul M. Sniderman is Fairleigh S. Dickinson Jr. Professor of Public Policy and professor of political science at Stanford University.

Jack Vowles is professor of political science at the University of Auckland, New Zealand.