Adverse selection in principal-agent relationship, 24
Allende administration socialist experiment of, 76–78 violation of property rights under, 79 Aninat, Eduardo, 130
Aspe, Pedro, 151, 170–71, 200
Audience costs, 58
Authoritarian governments creation of bias in politics, 244 in emerging democracies, 50–54
entrenchment strategies of, 132 factors influencing insulation behavior, 43–45 hierarchical decision making under, 43–44 indicators of strength of outgoing, 65 insulation of institutions from democratic politics, 1–6, 245 interest in creating autonomous central bank, 52–53, 57 pockets of impunity as insulation, 243–44 power of appointment as insulation, 245 preference for insulation, 11–12
protectionist, 11
rules governing central bank, 72 threats related to transition to democracy, 62–65
See also Pinochet administration; Salinas administration Authoritarian governments, Chile. See Pinochet administration Authoritarian governments, Mexico
central bank reform, 151 Díaz regime (1876–1911), 159 liberalization of (1988–94), 196
See also Salinas administration
Aylwin, Patricio, 104, 125
Aylwin administration incentives of, 133
increased social spending (1990–91), 128 poverty under, 129
tax reform initiative, 128
Bank Fund for Savings Protection (Fobaproa), Mexico, 218–19
Banking Law (1989), Chile, 110
Banking system, Mexico absence of reserve requirements in, 212 nationalization (1982), 141, 144, 146 privatization, 145n. 4, 146 reprivatization (1988), 142
Bank of Mexico
autonomy under 1993 legislative reform, 173–77, 199, 241 charter (1985), 176 comparison of reforms of Central Bank of Chile and, 170–79 democratic threat as motivation for, 159–68 governing board under 1993 legislation, 177–78 idea for reform during Salinas sexenio, 170–72 loss of foreign exchange reserves (1994), 210–11 monetary policy (1994), 210–11 motivation for reform, 151–59 operation of Fobaproa by, 218–19 partial autonomy with reform, 173–75, 217 role in financial crisis (1994–95), 217–18 timing of reform for, 151–59, 199–202 Bargaining
in NEO paradigm, 253
in transitions, 254
Bhutto, Benazhir, 227, 229–31
Bianchi, Andrés, 171
Boeninger, Edgardo, 133
Brady plan (Mexico), 142
Büchi, Hernán, 119
Business Coordinating Council (CCE), Mexico, 153–55 Business sector, Chile
under democratic governments, 134 political power under Pinochet regime, 93–94 Business sector, Mexico concentration of capital in economic groups, 148–50 economic groups in CCE, 154 factions in (1980s), 153 threat from small and medium-sized firms, 186–90 Camacho, Manuel, 200, 209
Campero, Guillermo, 91–99
Capital flows into Chile (1980–93), 135–36 from Mexico, 152, 210–11 into Mexico (1990s), 144
under Pinochet regime, 135 Cárdenas, Cuauhtémoc
elected as mayor of Mexico City, 220 1988 political campaign of, 165, 166–68
as PRD leader, 179–83
CCE. See Business Coordinating Council
Central bank
definition and function of, 23 loans to government by, 172–73 models of reform, 28–29 reasons for creating autonomous, 24 recent reforms of, 23 used as development bank, 39 Central bank autonomy credibility literature about, 26–30 defined, 23
disadvantages for authoritarian regimes, 53–54 discretion over monetary policy, 69 effect of autonomous, 2, 8–9 efficiency view of, 29–30 explanations of persistence of, 58–62 factors influencing amount of, 54 formal/legal measures of, 66–72 informal measures of, 66 as insulation for authoritarian influence, 47–55 interest of authoritarian regimes in creating, 52–53, 57 lending policies of, 68–69 limits lending to government, 68–69 monetary policy of, 69
partial, 54–55
as perceived by international investors, 57 persistence under democratic regime, 55–62 political actors losing with, 30–33 rules facilitating creation of, 68–72 rules related to governing board, 70–72 statutory objectives of, 70 validity of credibility hypothesis, 30–33 Central bank autonomy, Chile. See Central Bank of Chile; Central bank reform Central bank autonomy, Mexico. See Bank of Mexico; Central bank reform, Mexico Central Bank of Chile austerity program (1992), 129–30 comparison of reforms of Bank of Mexico and, 170–79 in 1980 constitution, 87 democratic governments’ reluctance to change, 137 governing board terms of office, 117, 119–20 legislation to ensure (1989), 87, 111–24 original efforts to reform (1970s), 88–91 persistent autonomy of, 125–26 policy objectives under 1989 legislation, 116–17 quota system for board members, 118–21, 124, 131 reform legislation (1989), 113–21, 124, 131, 226 support for autonomy of, 93–94 tension between democratic governments and, 129–30 timing of constitutional amendment, 88–96, 110–13 timing of reform (1989), 88–96
Central bank reform
Argentina, 222
credibility hypothesis as explanation for, 30–33 as insulation by authoritarian regime, 9–12
Pakistan, 226–31
South Africa, 223–26
Central bank reform, Chile credibility hypothesis to explain, 94–96 insulation hypothesis, 96–107
See also Constitution, Chile; Legislation, Chile Central bank reform, Mexico incentives for, 152–55 motive for, 159–68
timing of, 155–59
See also Constitution, Mexico; Legislation, Mexico
Cetes (Mexican Treasury bills), tesebonos substituted for, 212
Cevallos, Diego Fernandez, 209
Chiapas rebellion, 208
Coase theory of the firm, 253
Colosio, Luis Donaldo assassination of, 208, 212 hand-picked by Salinas, 200–201 Concertation of Parties for Democracy, Chile as Chilean opposition coalition, 101–2 defeats Pinochet in plebiscite (1988), 101–3 agreements within, 103–5 economic program after election, 106–7 goals of, 133
internal divisions, 105 position on role of central bank, 122 proposed economic program of, 103–7 Confederation of Production and Commerce (CPC), Chile role under authoritarian regime, 92 role under democratic governments, 134 Constitution, Chile amendment process (1980 document), 98–99, 132–33 amendment to create autonomous central bank (1980 document), 108, 114 original Central Bank definition (1980 document), 87 1925 version, 97
Constitution, Mexico
of 1917, 159–60
amendment for central bank reform in, 178, 216 Constitution, Pakistan (1985), 227n. 5
Córdoba, José, 204, 206
Council of Mexican Businessmen (CMHN), 154
CPC. See Confederation of Production and Commerce Currency, Mexico
devaluation (1982), 140–41
devaluation (1994), 210, 217
Debt, external
Mexican moratorium on payments (1982), 41, 144
Debt, subordinated, in Chilean banking law (1989), 110 de Castro, Sergio, 89
De la Madrid administration capital flight from Mexico during, 152 free-market economists in, 141–44 market-oriented policy reforms, 142, 144 Democratic governments acceptance of authoritarian-constructed institutions, 55–62 demonstrations of credibility by, 56
in emerging democracies, 47–50 implications of insulated transitions for, 248–52 indicators of strength of incoming, 64–65 insulation against transition, 3–6 insulation incentives with potential onset of, 42–47 Democratic governments (continued) intense and proximate threats of transition to, 45–47, 62–65 limited by authoritarian institutions, 1–6 persistence of central bank autonomy under, 55–62 South Korean transition, 231–32 Democratic governments, Chile constrained redistributive policies of, 127–32 lack of incentive to change existing legislation, 133–34
See also Aylwin administration; Frei administration Democratic opposition, Chile, 121–24
See also Concertation of Parties for Democracy Developing countries
central bank as development bank, 39 central bank reform in, 7–9, 35–36, 59 comparison of central bank independence in, 37–38 distributional conflicts in, 36–42 importance of appearance of macroeconomic stability for, 134–37 measure of central bank autonomy in, 67 need for redistributive institutions in, 254 Economic performance, Chile during Allende regime, 76–77 under Aylwin and Frei administrations, 126–27
during Pinochet regime, 78–86, 91–96, 111, 135–36 Economic performance, Mexico after 1982 debt crisis, 152
post-1982 financial crisis, 140–44 during Salinas regime, 142–44 trade (1980s–90s), 146, 149 Economic policy, Chile democrats’ call for redistributive program in, 104–5
during Pinochet regime, 78–86, 91–93, 96, 135
Economic policy, Mexico of De la Madrid regime, 142
post-1982 financial crisis, 140–44
of PRI neoliberal faction, 164 reforms of technocrats (1980s–90s), 144–50 Economic policy, Pakistan
World Bank and IMF recommendations for, 228–29
Electoral systems
Chilean electorate’s right to choose leader (1988), 99–102 reforms in Mexico, (1989–94), 196n. 48 rules to advantage partisan interests, 244–45 Exchange rate policy with autonomous central bank, 53 role of Chilean central bank, 115–16, 175 Exchange rate policy, Mexico debate over control of, 203–5 during financial crisis (1994–95), 214, 217 role of Foreign Exchange Commission in, 175, 205, 214
Feliú, Manuel, 134
Financial crises, Chile (1982), 81–82, 91, 95–96
Financial crises, Mexico causes of 1994–95 crisis, 214 effect of 1982 crisis, 140–44 external debt crisis (1982), 152
Financial sector, liberalization with autonomous central bank, 53 Financial sector, Mexico deregulation (1990s), 156–57 economic power (1980s–90s), 145–46, 149 indicators of credibility of, 158 liberalization (1990s), 146 nonbank financial institutions in, 145–46
See also Banking system, Mexico
Fobaproa. See Bank Fund for Savings Protection Foreign direct investment (FDI) in Chile (1989–94), 135 in Mexico (post-1989), 157
Foxley, Alejandro, 102–5
Frei administration, 128–29

Industrial sector, Mexico economic groups linked to large firms, 149–50 import substitution industrialization, 149, 164 as part of populist coalition (1988–94), 186–90

Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI), Mexico candidates in 1994 election campaign, 200–201, 208–9, 212–14 constitutional provisions strengthening, 160 as dominant political party, 160 economic policy of neoliberal faction, 164 internal conflict, 183–86 PAN as ally of, 193
political opposition (1988), 165–66 presidential candidate assassinated (1994), 208 rise of neoliberal faction, 164 rise of technocratic faction in, 165 senior official assassinated (1994), 208 threats (1994), 208–9

See also Salinas administration

Institutions
design of, 252–55
insulated institutions in democracies, 248–52 insulation of authoritarian, 45–55 limiting democratic process, 1–6 persistence in Chile, 125–38 persistence of authoritarian, 12–13, 43–45, 55–62, 245–48 reputations of, 57
role of politicians in choices for, 24–26

Insulation
with change of regime, 42–45 effect in democracies, 248–52 future research related to, 255–56 intensity and proximity of democratic threats and, 45–47, 54 partial Mexican, 197–207
by Pinochet regime in Chile, 97–99 potential outcomes of, 54–55 provides persistence of institutions, 55–62 strategies in Chile for, 109–10 with threat of democracy in transition, 45–55 in transition from authoritarian rule, 9–12, 43–45 International Monetary Fund (IMF), policy reforms for Pakistan, 228–29

Labor policy under Aylwin and Frei governments (Chile), 128–29

Legislation, Chile
Banking Law (1989), 110
for central bank autonomy (1989), 87, 111–24 in political and military sectors (1989), 109–10 privatization initiatives, 110

See also Constitution, Chile

Legislation, Mexico
proposed additional central bank reform (1998), 220

Less-developed countries (LDCs). See Developing countries

Macroeconomic performance in Mexico (1980–93), 141
post-1989 Chilean central bank reform, 126–27

Mancera, Miguel, 170–71, 215, 218

Monetary policy
autonomous central bank formulation of, 69 conditions when politicians cede control of, 33–35 discretion of Central Bank of Chile to make, 114 governed by central banks, 23 Monetary policy (continued) politicians delegate to central bank, 26–30 as responsibility of central bank, 6–9 Monetary policy, Mexico of Bank of Mexico (1994), 210–11 of reformed central bank, 174–76 during Salinas administration, 171–72 Moral hazard in principal-agent relationship, 24
National Action Party (PAN)
as ally of PRI, 193
in 1988 elections, 166–68
philosophy of, 179–80
support for autonomous central bank, 172–73, 176
National Democratic Front (NDF), Mexico, 166
National Solidarity Program (Pronasol), Mexico, 182
New economics of organization (NEO) problems related to, 253–54 view of institutional design, 253
North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), 142, 157–58, 192, 199
Ortiz, Guillermo, 218–20
PAN. See National Action Party
Party of the Democratic Revolution (PRD), Mexico Cárdenas as leader of, 179–83, 220 regional political support for, 193 Peso crisis. See Financial crises, Mexico
Pinochet, Augusto, 98–101
Pinochet administration central bank autonomy granted (1989), 87 efforts to reform central bank (1970s), 88–91
entrenchment strategies of, 132 legal status in 1980 Constitution, 98–99 legislative actions (1989), 109–10 long-term goals of, 77–78 post-power authoritarian enclave, 75 right to choose successor to (1988), 99–102 role of U.S. trained economists in, 78–79 support from business and private sector for, 78–79 transition to democracy (1988–89), 196 Political coalition, Chile. See Concertation of Parties for Democracy Political system
Chilean Concertation coalition, 102–7, 122, 133
Pakistan, 226–31
party opposition as threat to authoritarian regime, 62–65 Political system, Mexico factors influencing 1988 elections, 162–66 factors shaping, 159–60 loss of election predictability, 197–98
PRI as dominant party in, 160 Politicians
ceding control of monetary policy, 33–35 delegate monetary policy to central bank, 26–30 losers under independent central bank, 30–33 structure bureaucratic agencies, 24–26, 43–45 Poverty, Chile, 129
PRD. See Party of the Democratic Revolution
Principal-agent problem, 24–25
Private sector, Chile, 134 Privatization
in Chile during Pinochet regime, 110 of Mexican public sector, 151 in Mexico during Salinas regime, 142
Procampo, Mexico, 198
Public opinion
in Chile, 104
in Mexico, 215
Qureshi, Moeen, 227–30
Reputation
defined, 12, 57
as explanation of central bank persistence, 57–59
Reserve Bank of South Africa, 225–26

Salinas administration as authoritarian regime, 139 debt relief of Brady plan, 142 economic restructuring under, 145 electoral reforms of, 196n. 48 goal to entrench credibility, 151 institutional reforms of, 199–202 loss of election outcome predictability, 197–98 privatization during, 142 successor hand-picked by Salinas, 197–98 timing of reform of central bank, 151–59, 199–202

Sharif, Nawaz, 227, 230
Silva Herzog, Jesús, 145
State National Bank, Pakistan, 228

tesebonos (dollar-linked instrument), cetes substituted for, 212 Threat, democratic with defeat of Pinochet, 102–7 intensity of, 62–63
during Pinochet regime, 99–102
post-1988 intensity in Mexico, 179–97 proximity of, 63–65

World Bank policy reforms for Pakistan (1990s), 228–29

Zahler, Roberto, 130
Zedillo, Ernesto, 209, 213–14
Zedillo government, devaluation of currency by, 210, 217