Abgattas, Luis, 243
Abusada, Roberto, 138n. 19, 139–40, 145nn. 25–26, 241, 244, 248 accountability, bureaucratic autonomy and, 35
ADEX, 119, 123, 139–40
Agricultural Promotion and Development Law, 131–35 agricultural reforms, 70, 241–42; economic reform and, 243; García initiatives in, 161–62; heterodox stabilization and, 165–66; under military regime, 86; Peruvian neglect of, 77–80; RGAF policy outcomes and, 100–104; social-market model and, 131–35, 136–37
Alasino, Augusto, 213n. 25
Allende, Salvador, 25
Allende, Salvador, 25
Alliance for Progress: economic and planning institutions in Peru and, 63–68; economic policies of, 70; fiscal crisis in Peru and, 75; industrial development in Peru and, 58
Alva Castro, Luis, 155, 168
Alvarez, Augusto, 105, 107
Alvarez, Carlos, 238n. 7
Alvarez, Elena, 208
American Popular Revolutionary Alliance (APRA): agricultural sector and, 77, 80; antipopulist backlash and, 165–68; developmentalist policies and, 120–21; FREDEMO coalition and, 173; Fujimori’s second-phase market reforms and, 210; García’s regime and, 159, 161; IU coalition with, 156–57, 164–65; job stability program and, 94–95; military coalition and, 85; PC coalition with, 69–70; PPC coalition, 124–25, 165; public-sector expansion and, 59; technocratic pool in, 154; United Left (IU) coalition, 148–49
Ames, Barry, 31
Amsden, Alice, 23, 224, 227
Anaconda Copper, 78
Andean Common Market (Ancom), 103–4; Fujimori’s trade liberalization and, 190, 231; Peru’s position in, 9; state economic and planning institutions and, 37
Andean Development Corporation, 218
Andrés Pérez, Carlos, 179 anti-inflation shock programs: as debt shock response, 29–31; social-market model and, 126–27 antipopulist movements, heterodox stabilization and, 165–68
Aramburu, Carlos, 234n. 4
Arce, Moisés, 182
Ardito-Barletta, Nicolás, 26
Argentina: antipopulism in, 169–70; bureaucratic autonomy in, 34; Convertibility Plan, 234–35; debt shocks in, 25, 29–30; developmentalism in, 58; distributional reforms in, 247; GDP growth in, 180; heterodox stabilization in, 152–54; hyperinflation in, 56; import-substitution industrialization (ISI) in, 11, 55; inflation policies in, 161; interest intermediation in, 42n. 10, 43–44, 157; leadership coalitions in, 40–42, 213; market reforms in, 48–49, 181, 225; neoconservatism in, 119–20; Peru’s comparisons with, 222–23; political transitions in, 246; second-phase reforms in, 206
Asian economic crises (see also East Asian states): Fujimori’s market reforms and, 213; Latin American economic reform and, 51–52 assets: Argentinian concentration of, 48–49; Fujimori’s privatization of, 192–93, 240–42
A virtue of the fiscal crisis of, 73–80; RGAF bureaucratic overhaul and, 86, 88–93; social-market model and, 127–28

Baca, Jorge, 191
“backward and forward linkages,” Peruvian National Development Plan and, 97

Baer, Werner, 220
balance of payments: Fujimori’s reforms and capitalization of, 194; hyperinflation management and, 186; RGAF foreign borrowing and, 99–100, 104

Balassa, Bela, 5, 23, 26, 82, 219

Ballón, Eduardo, 15n. 4

Banco Continental (Peru), 61
Banco de Crédito, 145n. 24

Banco de la Nación, 64n. 9; social-market model and, 128–29, 141–43; state-owned enterprises (SOEs) and, 107

Banco Popular (Peru), 105 bank nationalization (see also central banks): Fujimori’s reforms of, 193–94; heterodox stabilization and policy of, 164–68

Bank of Tokyo, 172

Barrantes, Alfonso, 148, 156–57
BCRP. See Central Reserve Bank of Peru (BCRP)

Beaulne, Marie, 61, 76

Bedoya, Luis, 121

Belco Petroleum Company, 167n. 20

Bertram, Geoffrey, 59n. 4, 74, 108

Birdsall, Nancy, 4, 9, 36, 220

Bolaños, Maria Emma, 112

Bolivia, import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies, 55

Bollinger, William, 72, 94–95, 158

Boloña, Carlos, 8, 220n. 37, 231, 247; as Fujimori’s minister, 184, 186, 188, 190, 192, 198 bond purchase requirements, García plan for, 163–64 borrowing procedures. See debt rescheduling; debt-service payments; external borrowing

Bosworth, Barry, 237

Boylan, Delia, 7, 205, 213, 226, 231, 237

Branch, Brian, 132

Brazil: bureaucratic autonomy in, 34, 92–93; corporatist intermediation in, 41; debt rescheduling in, 25; debt shocks in, 29; developmentalism in, 58; economic reforms in, 18, 189, 225; fiscal crisis in, 213; GDP growth in, 180; heterodox stabilization in, 152–54; hyperinflation in, 56; import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies, 11, 55; inflation policies in, 161; institution building in, 63; interest intermediation in, 42n. 10; lack of economic stabilization in, 31; leadership coalitions in, 40–41; market reform patterns in, 44, 47–48; political transitions in, 246; privatization of, bureaucratic autonomy in, 34; production incentives in, bureaucratic autonomy (see also autonomy; civil service reforms; economic and planning institutions; executive autonomy; merit-based hiring systems): accountability issues and, 9, 233–34; administrative reforms and, 37–39; economic policy and, 6, 32–35, 203–5; Fujimori’s streamlining of, 196–99, 241–42; heterodox stabilization and, 154–55, 167–68; RGAF overhaul of, 88–93; social-market model and, 127–28

Burki, Shahid, 2, 22, 26, 31, 34–36, 44n. 12, 47, 226

business coalitions: Chilean modernization of, 237–39; Fujimori’s ties with, 207–9; García regime and, 162–63; Peruvian economic policy and, 71

CADE (business executives meeting), 159, 161, 208–9

CAEM (Peruvian national war college), 83

“Cambio 90,” 211

Cameron, David, 45

Cameron, Maxwell, 183, 211, 231

Camet, Jorge, 221n. 37

Camisea gas project, 218

capital flight, distributional effects of, 27n. 3 capital formation: RGAF policy and, 96–104; social-market model and, 135–37; state-owned enterprises (SOEs) and, 105–9 capitalism: García’s “social concertación” strategy and, 158–59; Peruvian statist experiment with, 82–115; social-market model and, 130–31

Carbonetto, Daniel, 160n. 11

Cárdenas, Lázaro (Mexican president), 39n. 8

Cardoso, Eliana, 246

Cardoso, Fernando Henrique, 16, 47, 179, 206

Carey, John, 210

Carretera Marginal (Peruvian jungle highway), 77

Carrillo, Carlos, 243

Castillo, Carolina, 192n. 9

central banks (see also bank nationalization): autonomy for, 237–39; economic reform and, 7; Fujimori’s streamlining of, 197–99; state economic and planning institutions and, 36–39

Central Reserve Bank of Peru (BCRP), 63, 77–78, 89, 93, 230–32; Fujimori renovation of, 180, 199–203; heterodox stabilization policy and, 160, 164, 168; hyperinflation management and, 184; neostructuralist reform and, 155–56; renewed influence of, 113; social-market model and, 122, 128–30

Centromin, 105, 133

Cerro de Pasco, 105

Cerro Verde copper mine, 101

Certificado de Reintegro Tributario a las Exportaciones (CERTEX), 123, 126, 138–40, 190 certificates of deposit (CDs), Peruvian social-market model and, 123

Chamber of Commerce (Peru), 71

Chaudry, Shahid, 38

Chile: Alliance for Progress aid to, 75; bureaucratic autonomy in, 34; central bank legislation in, 37; competitive economic strategy in, 234–39; corporatist intermediation in, 41; debt shocks in, 24–25, 29–31; democratic transition in, 15; direct state intervention in, 24–26; “distributional moment” in, 238, 247; economic reforms in, 18, 189, 206, 225; GDP growth in, 180; hyperinflation in, 56; import-substitution industrialization
Chile (continued)
(ISI) policies, 11, 55; market reform in, 9–11, 43–44, 46–47, 50, 120, 181; microeconomic dynamics in, 46; neoconservatism in, 119; Peru's comparisons with, 8, 222–23, 246–49; political liberalization in, 42, 246; political-party system in, 42; public-sector expansion in, 19; state-owned enterprises in, 25; state streamlining in, 46–47
Christian Democrats (CD) (Peru), 69–72, 76, 80, 94, 121
CIAEF. See Council of Economic and Financial Cabinet Ministers (CIAEF) citizen coalitions, state economic and planning institutions and, 38–39 Citizen Participation Program, 195–96 civilian coup of 1992 (Peru), 186–88 civil-service reforms (Peru) (see also bureaucratic autonomy; merit-based hiring systems): RGAF public-sector expansion and, 91–93; state economic and planning institutions and, 38–39 civil society: Chilean economic reform and role of, 47, 238–39; economic and planning institutions and, 38–39; economic reform and, 15–17, 233–34; Fujimori’s “neoliberal populism” and, 212–13; heterodox stabilization and fragmentation of, 169–70; leadership coalitions and, 40–41; RGAF state vis-a-vis, 93–96; state role in, 22 class structure (see also middle class): dependency theory concerning, 82–84; Fujimori and, 182–83; Peruvian development coalitions and, 68–73; Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 79–80; RAGF approach to, 93–96 Cleaves, Peter, 87, 89–92, 95
clientelism, Brazilian market reforms and, 47. See also patron-client networks Coalition of Democratic Parties (Chile), 246 COAP. See Council of Presidential Advisors (COAP) (Peru) cocaine traffic: Fujimori and, 183; political violence and, 172; social-market model and, 123–24
COFIDE. See Corporación Financiera de Desarrollo (COFIDE)
Collier, David, 11
Colombia, Alliance for Progress aid to, 75
Comisión Nacional de Inversiones y Tecnologías Extranjeras (CONITE), 135 Commission for the Promotion of Private Investment (COPRI), 192–93, 195–96, 201 compensatory policies, direct and indirect, 40n. 9 competitive economic strategy, Peru's search for, 224–49
CONADE. See Corporación Nacional de Desarrollo (CONADE)
Conaghan, Catherine M., 33, 103, 129, 159, 183
CONAMYPE. See Confederation of Small Businesses (CONAMYPE) concertación strategy, Peruvian economic reforms and, 15–17
Confederation of Peruvian Workers (CTP), 72–73
Confederation of Private Sector Firms (CONFIEP), 140, 159, 166, 208–9
Confederation of Small Businesses (CONAMYPE), 208–9
CONFIEP. See Confederation of Private Sector Firms (CONFIEP)
CONITE. See Comisión Nacional de Inversiones y Tecnologías Extranjeras (CONITE) constitutional reforms, social-market model and, 121 consumption patterns, heterodox stabilization and increase in, 161
Cooperación Popular, 71
CORFO. See Corporación Fomento de la Producción (CORFO) (Chile)
Cornejo, Roberto, 63, 93, 97, 128
Corporación Financiera de Desarrollo (COFIDE): investment patterns and policy outcomes, 102–4; RGAF and, 89–93; social-market model and, 128–29, 133–35, 141–43; state-owned enterprises (SOEs) and, 106
Corporación Fomento de la Producción (CORFO) (Chile), 89, 237–38
Corporación Nacional de Desarrollo (CONADE), 128, 132
Corporación Peruana de Vapores, 67
corporatism: civil society under RGAF and, 94–96; economic reform and collapse of, 225; interest intermediation and, 41–43, 130–31
Corrales, Javier, 7, 40, 44, 211, 226
Cotler, Julio, 56, 81, 93, 211
Council of Economic and Financial Cabinet Ministers (CIAEF), 132
Council of Ministers (Peru) commission, state-owned enterprises (SOEs) and, 106–7
Council of Presidential Advisors (COAP) (Peru), 87–88, 113, 155
Crabtree, John, 153, 182–83 credit policies (see also debt rescheduling): García’s democratization of, 164–65; Peruvian control over, 59; RGAF investment patterns and policy outcomes, 101–4; social-market model and, 139–43
Cuajone copper mine, 122 currency board (Argentina), 49
Cusack, Thomas R., 45 debt-for-equity swaps, García plan for, 161–65, 163n. 15 debt rescheduling: Fujimori’s first-phase market reforms and, 186, 193–94; Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 76–80, 144–47, 229–32; social-market model and, 141–43 debt-service payments: Fujimori’s resumption of, 186; Peruvian moratorium on, 153, 159–65, 167–68, 171–73, 193 debt shocks: developmentalism and, 22–28; economic and planning institutions and, 37–39, 225–26; economic impact of, 2; interest intermediation and, 42–43; leadership coalitions and, 40–41, 153–54; Peruvian coalitions and, 77–80; policy fragmentation and, 143–47; state role in, 5, 18, 28–31 decentralization strategies, Peruvian market reforms and, 240–42 defense spending (Peru), 111, 146n. 27 deficit budgets: post-1970 acceleration of, 24–26; post-reconstruction reduction of, 45–51
De la Rúa, Fernando, 49, 240, 246
De la Torre, Augusto, 4, 9, 36 delayed economic development, dependency theory concerning, 82–84 Democratic Alliance (Argentina), 247
Democratic Constitutional Congress (CCD), 188, 210 Democratic Front (FREDEMO) (Peru), 165, 173–75 democratization of reform, state economic and planning institutions and, 38–39
De Onis, Juan, 58, 70, 75 dependency theory: bureaucratic autonomy and, 33–35; leadership coalitions and, 129–30; Peruvian industrialization and, 58; Peruvian statism and capitalism and, 82–84
De Soto, Hernando, 58n. 3, 173
developmentalism (see also economic development): import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies and, 55–57; Peruvian state intervention and, 59–62; state intervention, 5 Development and Public Works Ministry, Peruvian economic reform and, 63–68 development banks, Peruvian state expansion and, 67–68 Devlin, Robert, 77, 99, 109 direct state intervention, contribution to GDP and, 23–26. See also state direct state intervention, contribution to GDP and, 23–26. See also state Dornbusch, Rudiger, 29, 174–75, 237
Dresser, Denise, 212
dualist economic structures: developmentalism and, 68–73; Fujimori’s second-phase reforms and, 219–21; microeconomic strategies and, 244; public-sector expenditures and, 59; RGAF and, 89; tax system and, 76n. 24
Du Bois, Fritz, 244, 248
Durand, Francisco, 95, 170, 191, 208, 212–13
East Asian states (see also Asian economic crises): economic development in, 23, 82–83; export policies of, 56–57

ECLAC. See Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) economic and planning institutions: accountability for, 233–34; consolidation of, 80; Fujimori’s streamlining of, 197–203; market-reform legacy in Peru and, 230–32; neostructuralist model and, 155–56; overview of, 200–201; Peruvian neglect of, 63–68, 79–80; policy outcomes and, 35–39; professionalization strategy in, 237–39; RGAF and, 89–93, 96; social-market model and, 128–29; stability of, 4

Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC), 36–39; INP and, 89; Peruvian economic development and, 63; RGAF and, 83

economic development (see also developmentalism): competitive strategies for, 234–39; conflicting theories concerning, 4–8; debt shocks and, 22–28; historical evolution of, 1–2; public-sector expansion and, 19–22; state’s role in, 4–8, 18

economic reform (see also market reform): Fujimori’s program, 188–96; public-sector retreat and, 22; state streamlining and, 44–51; trade liberalization and, 242–44

Ecuador, Peruvian border conflict with, 209 education: heterodox stabilization and spending on, 172–73; levels of Peruvian technocrats, 92–93; of Peruvian elites, 65–66; Peruvian investment in, 76, 79, 195n. 13, 244–45; RGAF investment patterns and policy outcomes, 100–104

Edwards, Sebastian, 23, 40, 47, 103, 174–75, 186, 237, 243 electoral politics (Peru): balance of power and, 64n. 10; bureaucratic autonomy and, 35; class structure and, 69–73; competitive economic strategies and, 246–49; developmentalism and, 61; leadership coalitions and, 40–41, 173–75; second-phase market reforms and, 210–18; social-market model and, 121–25, 141–43, 147–49

electric power projects, social-market investment and, 105, 108, 133, 137

Electroperu, 105, 108, 133

elites: Argentinian market reforms and, 49; bureaucratic autonomy and, 33–35; Fujimori and, 182–83, 232–33; institution building and role of, 64–68, 169–73; leadership coalitions in, 40–41, 68–73; Peruvian developmentalism and, 11, 61–62; Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 78–81

employment patterns (see also job stability): development strategies and, 243–44; Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 79–80; public-sector layoffs (Peru), 112–13, 196–99; RGAF public-sector expansion, 90–91

Empresa Petrolera Fiscal (EPF), 67–68, 74n. 22, 105

Enafer, 133

Encinas del Pando, José A., 111

Entelperu, 105

entrepreneur, Peruvian state as, 104–9, 114–15

EPSA (Peru), 107–8

equity-building initiatives, market reforms and, 46

ESAN. See Escuela de Administración des Negocios para Graduados (ESAN)

Escobal, Javier, 243

Escuela de Administración des Negocios para Graduados (ESAN), 92 ethnic identity, Peruvian electoral politics and, 114–15

Euromarket lenders, 82–84, 99

European Economic Community, 160

Evans, Peter, 22, 31, 33, 56, 81, 82, 129, 205 exchange rates: devaluation of, 29, 237–38; as economic adjustment tool, 156; exports and devaluation of, 109–15; fixed exchange rates, 29; heterodex stabilization and, 160–65; hyperinflation management and, 184; market-completing reforms in, 240–42; Peruvian overvaluation of, 59, 77–78; social-market model and, 123, 138–40; trade liberalization strategies and, 243–44

executive autonomy (see also autonomy; bureaucratic autonomy): economic reforms and, 7, 12–14; electoral politics and, 148–49; Fujimori’s consolidation of, 180–82, 187–88; García’s enhancement of, 154; market reforms and, 226; RGAF insulation of, 87–88; social-market model and role of, 122–25

exports: Chilean promotion strategies for, 237–38; debt-service payment limits on earnings from, 153; debt shocks and impact of, 28; East Asian development model and, 23; Fujimori’s trade liberalization and, 190; growth rates for, 2, 4; import-substitution industrialization (ISI) and, 56, 109–13; inflation and, 142–43; percentage of GDP, 27–28; Peruvian developmentalism and, 59–62; public sector and growth in, 63n. 6; RGAF policy outcomes and, 73–81, 103; social-market model and, 122–25; trade liberalization and, 138–40, 242–44 external sector: Fujimori’s reforms and, 45, 189; García regime and, 161–62; interest intermediation and, 42–43; Latin American economic reform and, 2–3; Peruvian macroeconomic indicators and, 109–13; privatization and social-market reforms, 134–35; second-phase market reforms and, 218–21

“falling behind” phenomenon, dependency theory and, 82
Ferrari, Cesar, 160n. 11
Figueroa, Leonel, 155–56
financial reform, Fujimori’s recovery policies and, 190–91, 193–94
First Interstate of California, 164n. 17 first-phase market reforms: Fujimori coalition, 183–88; import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies and, 55; state economic and planning institutions and, 38
Fishlow, Albert, 23, 120, 146, 152, 166 fish-meal industry: Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 76–80; RGAF investment patterns and policy outcomes, 103–4 Fitzgerald, E. V. K., 58, 59, 75, 82, 89n. 5, 102
Flores Nano, Lourdes, 217–18
FONAFE fund, 199
FONCODES. See National Fund for Development and Social Compensation (FONCODES)
Ford Foundation, Peruvian economic development and, 64 foreign credit. See external borrowing foreign direct investment (FDI): capital formation and, 99; debt shocks and impact of, 28, 74–80; Fujimori’s reforms and, 189, 193–94; government debt patterns and, 27–28; Peruvian foreign-capital laws and, 59; Peruvian industrialization and, 58; post-reconstruction increase in, 45; privatization and, 134–35; RGAF controls on, 97, 99; social-market model and, 126–27
Foreign Investment Promotion Act, 194 “foreign savings,” government reliance on, 30
Foreign Trade Institute, 198 formal rules, state economic and planning institutions and, 36
Fox, Vicente (Mexican president), 248
Foxley, Alejandro, 85, 142
Franco, Carlos, 160n. 11, 192, 240
Franko, Patrice, 33, 56, 83, 246
FREDEMO. See Democratic Front (FREDEMO) (Peru)
Frieden, Jeffry, 31
Frischando, Ariel, 234 n. 4
Fujimori, Alberto: civilian coup of 1992 and, 186–88; defeat and asylum of, 114–18, 239; distributional reforms of, 183–88, 247–48; economic reconstruction and recovery under, 15–17, 50–51, 179, 188–96, 231–32; election of, 173; fiscal shocks in regime of, 190–91; legacy of, 222–23; as managerial executive, 8; military coalition with, 182–83; second-phase reforms of, 182, 205–21; state reconstruction by, 180–82, 196–205

García, Alan, 148–49; antipopulist backlash against, 165–68; antiterrorist initiatives of, 172; economic and planning institutions under, 153–55, 199, 208; heterodox stabilization under, 159–65, 168–75, 189, 193–94, 246; interest intermediation under, 157–59; leadership coalitions of, 156–57, 187; political resurgence of, 217–18; privatization initiatives of, 192, 207
García, Mauricio, 233
García Sayán, Diego, 216 n. 30
Garman, Christopher, 242
Garzón, José, 86
Geddes, Barbara, 31, 35, 40, 63, 93, 180
General Confederation of Peruvian Workers (CGTP), RGAF and, 95–96
George, Alexander, 11
Gereffi, Gary, 56, 81, 129
“Gestión Pública” research project, 99 n. 13
Ghio, José Maria, 49
Glade, William, 23, 25, 30
Gonzáles, Efrain, 8, 184, 188–89, 231 government. See state government expenditures, post-reform decreases in, 45–51 government-held debt: explosion in, 24–26, 30–31; Peruvian fiscal crisis and patterns of, 77–80; state-owned enterprises and, 25–26 “Government of Emergency and National Reconstruction,” 187 gradualism, Latin American leaders’ adoption of, 2 n. 2 Graham, Carol, 6, 22, 35, 80, 122, 149, 154, 158, 179, 195, 203, 212 governmentalization, electoral politics and, 173–75
“Green Book” (Peruvian military), 183, 220
Grindle, Merilee, 37
gross domestic product (GDP): exports as percentage of, 243; García regime and growth of, 161; growth as percentage of, 1–2, 23–26, 45; inflationary losses of, 29; Latin American developmentalist model and, 27–28, 224–25; Peruvian growth patterns and, 62, 180; private-sector investment as percentage of, 60, 97–99; public-sector share of, 5, 18–22, 24–26, 60; RGAF investment patterns and policy outcomes, 103–4; social subsidies as percentage of, 111; state-owned enterprises’ (SOEs) percentage of, 105–9 gross fixed income (GFI), Peruvian National Development Plan and, 97–98 Guerra-García, Gustavo, 9 guerrilla violence, 125, 147–49, 156, 163–64 (see also Sendero Luminoso); Fujimori and, 183, 186–88; institutionalization of, 171–73
Guzmán, Abimael, 188

Haggard, Stephan, 4, 9, 31, 34, 38, 47, 126 n. 11, 211, 232, 242, 246
Haworth, Nigel, 95
Haya de la Torre, Víctor Raúl, 69–70, 85 n. 1, 121, 124, 149, 157, 163 n. 16
Hazleton, William A., 131, 147 health care, Peruvian investments in, 244–45 heavy industry: import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies and, 55–56; trade liberalization and, 138 heterodox stabilization: anti-inflation policies, as debt shock response, 29–31; antipopulist backlash, 154–55; bureaucratic autonomy and, 155–56; García's policies, 159–65; interest intermediation and, 157–59; Latin American adoption of, 152–54; leadership coalition failures and, 157; legacy of, 246; Peruvian adoption of, 152–75; policy outcomes, 153n. 1, 168–73 import tariffs: Fujimori's trade liberalization and, 189–90; inflation management using, 58, 160–65; Peruvian elimination of licenses, 59; trade surpluses and, 29 import volumes, import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies and, 55 income distribution: Argentinian patterns of, 48–49; capital accumulation and, 86; Chilean macroeconomic recovery and, 238; economic development and, 9, 23, 247–49; Fujimori's FONCODES program and, 194–96; heterodox stabilization and, 153, 171–73; Latin American patterns of, 27–28; Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 79–80; public-sector expenditures and, 59; redistribution strategies, 247–49; RGAF policies concerning, 89, 100–104; second-phase market reforms and, 219–21

INDECOPI. See National Institute for the Defense of Competition and Protection of Intellectual Property (INDECOPI)

Independent Public Subsector (Peru), 66–68, 88–93

indirect state intervention, 26–28

industrial development: fiscal crisis and, 75–80; Fujimori's economic reforms and, 190; political coalitions and, 70–71, 94–96; RGAF investment in, policy outcomes and, 100–104; social-market model and, 136–37; trade liberalization and, 138–40

Industrial Promotion Law of 1940 (Peru), 59n. 4, 75 inflation (see also hyperinflationary crises): debt shocks and growth of, 29–30, 145–47; Fujimori's reforms and, 189; heterodox approach to, 152–54, 160–65, 171–73; post-reconstruction reduction in, 45; social-market reforms and, 123–24, 142–43 informal economy: business-sector withdrawal to, 163; economic and planning institutions and, 36 infrastructure investment: economic and planning institutions and, 37, 63; economic strategies for, 244; government borrowing in support of, 25; market reforms and, 242; social-market model and, 135–37

INP. See National Planning Institute (INP) (Peru)
Institute of Public Administration (INAP), 154n. 3 institutional modernization, 6;
emerging-market economies, 44n. 12; leadership coalitions and, 39–41; Peruvian state development and, 63–68;
policy agendas and, 7–8; regional variations in, 45–51; state economic and planning institutions and, 37–39
Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI) (Mexico), 43, 206, 212, 247 institutional variables: Argentina, 48–49;
  bureaucratic autonomy, 32–35; consolidation of state institutions, 6; economic and planning institutions, 35–39; economic policy and, 6–7, 31–44; heterodox stabilization and, 169–70; interest intermediation, 41–43; leadership coalitions, 39–41; market reform and, 43–44, 226–49; Peruvian economic reforms and, 64–68; political violence, institutionalization of, 171–73
Inter-Agency Review Committee (U.S.), 166
Inter-American Development Bank (IDB), 27 interest intermediation: economic policy and, 41–43; Fujimori’s second-phase market reforms and, 209–13; neostucturalist reform and, 157–59; Peruvian development coalitions and, 71–73;
  RGAF approach to, 93–96; social-market model and, 130–31 internal rule changes, state economic and planning institutions and, 38–39 international capital markets, private loans on: direct state intervention and, 24–26; state-owned enterprises and, 25–26
International Development Bank (IDB), 218
International Labour Office, 160
International Monetary Fund (IMF): debt shock remedies of, 29, 144–47; economic and planning institutions and, 36–39; “ineligible borrower” declaration against Peru, 167, 193;
inflation policies, 142–43; Latin American disillusionment with, 152; Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 78, 109–13, 166n. 19; Rights Accumulation Program, 193; second-phase market reforms in Peru and, 218; social-market model and, 119, 124, 126–27; trade liberalization and, 138–40 International Petroleum Company (IPC) (Peru), 73–80, 105 interventionist state policy, Peruvian economic reform and, 59–62 investment strategies (see also stock divestitures): debt shocks and impact of, 28; economic development and, 243–44; lack of local investor access, 74n. 22; social-market model and, 135–37 inward-looking industrial strategy, developmentalism and, 55–57 IPC. See International Petroleum Company (IPC) (Peru) irrigation projects (Peru), 101, 136–37
IT&T, 105
IU. See United Left (IU) coalition
Iversen, Torben, 45
Japanese embassy hostage crisis, 209
Jaquette, Jane S., 68 job stability (see also employment patterns): privatization and social-market reforms, 134–35; RGAF and, 86, 94–95 Job Stability Law, 94–95, 123 jungle-colonization program: Peruvian political coalitions and, 70–71;
social-market investment, 137
Kahler, Miles, 151
Kane, Cheik, 179, 203, 212
Kaufman, Robert, 28, 31, 47, 126n. 11, 211, 232, 246
Kay, Bruce, 212, 231, 242
Keefer, Philip, 2, 6, 8, 22, 35, 127, 180, 204–5, 221
Kessler, Timothy, 206
Kim, Kwang, 7, 34n. 4, 202
Kindleberger, Charles P., 63
Kisic, Drago, 194
Klarén, Peter, 90, 171
Klitgaard, Robert E., 89, 97
Krubitschek, Guscelino (Brazilian president), 35, 63, 92
Kuczynski, Pedro-Pablo, 5, 15–17, 23, 26, 64, 73, 78, 145n. 25, 219
Kurtz, Marcus, 8, 46, 237

Labán, Raúl, 237 labor coalitions: Fujimori’s second-phase market reforms and, 209–13; García’s “social concertación” strategy and, 158–59, 165–66; Peruvian economic development and, 72–73; RGAF and, 95–96; social-market model and, 130–31 labor-market deregulation (Argentina), 206 La Brea y Pariñas oil field, 74 laissez-faire policies: Fujimori’s adoption of, 189–96; state intervention and, 5 land reforms, RGAF policy outcomes and, 103–4
Larkey, Patrick D., 45
Larrain, Felipe, 25
Law of Entrepreneurial Activity of the State, 132–34 leadership stability, economic development and, 80
Lederman, Daniel, 40, 237
Legislative Decree 25418, 187
Leguía, Augusto (Peruvian president), 58–59
Levinson, Jerome, 58, 70, 75
Ley de Sociedades Mercantiles, 106, 132 limited-liability corporations, social-market model and, 132
Lizárraga, Raúl, 241
Llosa, Manuel, 192n. 9
London Inter-Bank Offer Rate (LIBOR), 142–43
Londonoño, Juan Luis, 220, 243
Lowenthal, Abraham F., 86
Machado, Roberto, 48
macroeconomic stabilization: Chilean competitive strategy for, 236–39; debt shocks and, 30–31; first-phase market reforms and, 183–88; García regime, 161–62; import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies and, 56–57; indirect state intervention and, 26–28; Latin American economic reform and, 2–3; market-completing reforms, 240–42; microeconomic stagnation and, 46–51, 227–28; Peruvian economic reforms and, 15–17, 77–80, 109–13; policy successes and, 7–8; populist theory and, 119–51; privatization and, 134–35; social-market model and, 140–43; state streamlining and, 44–51, 227
Mainwaring, Scott, 42–43, 211, 232
Majes Irrigation project, 101, 136–37
Malik, Waleed, 38
Malloy, James, 33, 104, 129–30
Maloney, William, 220 managerial executive, Fujimori as, 187–88 managerial structure, bureaucratic autonomy and, 34–35 manufacturing investment: economic reform and, 243–44; government borrowing in support of, 25; import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies and, 55–56; Peruvian patterns of, 58–62, 75–80
Manzetti, Luigi, 4, 183, 192, 198, 240
Marcel, Mario, 7, 29, 46, 237, 242
Marcaenaro, Harold, 202
Marcus-Delgado, Jane, 182 market-completing reforms, 239–42 market reform (see also economic reform; social-market model): absence of politics and, 213–18; accountability standards and, 9; bureaucratic autonomy and, 34–35; Chilean embrace of, 24; debt shocks and emergence of, 28–31; East Asian development model and, 23; economic and planning institutions and, 37–39; first phase under Fujimori, 183–88; Fujimori’s policies of, 179–82, 189–96; institutional variables in, 4, 43–44; leadership coalitions and, 39–41; Peruvian legacy of, 10–11, 228–34; political transitions and, 246–49; social-market model and, 119–20; socioeconomic lags in benefits from, 218–21; state-market debate, 18–52; state streamlining and, 22, 46–51 market shock programs, 179
Master Plan for Reform of the State Apparatus (Brazil), 47
Matos Mar, José, 79
Mauceri, Philip, 183, 231
McClintock, Cynthia, 86, 156
Meller, Patricio, 237, 243
Menem, Carlos (Argentinian president), 2n, 2, 16, 179, 204, 213
MERCOSUR, state economic and planning institutions and, 37 merit-based hiring systems, 80 (see also bureaucratic autonomy; civil service reforms); in Brazil, 93; Peruvian economic development and, 64; under RGAF, 90; state planning institutions and, 38–39
Mexico: business-cluster incentives, 244; central bank legislation in, 37; competitive economic strategy in, 234–39; corporatist intermediation in, 41; debt shocks in, 29; democratic transition in, 15, 43, 246; distributional reforms in, 247; economic reforms in, 9–11, 18, 189, 225; GDP growth in, 180; government borrowing patterns, 25; import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies, 11, 55; interest intermediation in, 42n. 10; leadership coalitions in, 40–41; market reforms in, 31, 43–44, 181; Ministry of Industrial Development, abolition of, 37; Peru’s comparisons with, 222–23; peso crisis in, 145, 234; privatization scandals in, 240; second-phase market reforms in, 206; state streamlining in, 49–51 microeconomic strategies: competitive approaches to, 237–39; employment creation, 243–44; Fujimori’s second-phase reforms and, 220–21; macroeconomic stabilization and, 46–51, 227–28; Peruvian market failures and, 238–39 middle class (see also class structure): leadership coalitions and, 129–30; Peruvian political coalitions and emergence of, 68–73 Midland Bank, 164n. 17
military forces (see also Revolutionary Government of the Armed Forces): APRA coalition with, 157; budget autonomy of, 146n. 27; Chilean market reforms and imposition of, 30–31; dependency in Peru and, 83–84; Fujimori coalition with, 182–83, 187–88, 207–9; hyperinflationary crises as catalyst for, 56; Peruvian economic reform and, 11–14, 85–87, 114–15, 220; Peruvian fiscal crisis and emergence of, 69, 73, 78–80
Mineroperu, 105, 108
minimalist economic reform strategy, 234–39 “Minimum Program” (Haya de la Torre and APRA platform), 85n. 1 mining sector: foreign-investor boycott of, 76–80; Fujimori’s privatization reforms and, 193; García’s distance from, 163n. 16; investment in, 136–37, 243; Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 73–80, 109–15; RGAF investment in, policy outcomes and, 100–104
Ministry of Development and Public Works (Peru), 66, 88–93
Ministry of Economy and Finance (MEF): debt crisis and, 144–47; economic-planning data of, 220n. 36; Fujimori’s renovation of, 180, 199–203; Fujimori’s second-phase market reforms and, 208; heterodox stabilization and, 155–56, 164, 168; INP and, 89, 93; Peruvian economic reform and, 63–68, 113, 230–32; public-sector modernization and, 198–99; social-market model and, 128–30; state-owned enterprises (SOEs) and, 107
Ministry of Foreign Affairs, 208
Ministry of Industry, 208
Ministry of the Presidency, 202–3, 216, 241, 245
Moe, Terry, 36
Moguillansky, Graciela, 247
Montoya, Carlos, 192n. 9
Mores, Juan, 238n. 7
Moreyra, Manuel, 123–24, 135, 138
Morley, Samuel, 48
Morón, Eduardo, 244, 248
Mosquiera, Edgardo, 233
“most similar systems” theory, Peruvian economic reform and, 10–11 multilateral institutions: East Asian development model and, 23; Fujimori and, 208–9 Muñoz, Italo, 192, 240
Nacional Financiera (Mexico), 89
NAFINSA. See Nacional Financiera (Mexico)
Naím, Moisés, 2, 4, 6, 22, 30, 35, 45–46, 205
National Action Party (PAN) (Mexico), 246
National Agrarian Society (Peru), 71, 94, 158
National Development Plan (Peru), 96–99, 113n. 23, 125–26, 155–56
National Elections Jury, 216
National Fund for Development and Social Compensation (FONCODES), 194–96, 201, 208
National Industrial Society (Peru), 71–72, 93–94, 139–40, 158
National Institute for Education and Health Infrastructure (INFES), 201
National Institute for the Defense of Competition and Protection of Intellectual Property (INDECOPI), 193n. 10, 200
National Intelligence Service (SIN), 187–88, 209, 233
National Planning Institute (INP) (Peru), 63, 154n. 3; declining influence of, 113; development coalition and, 68–73; Fujimori’s streamlining of, 198; García’s revival of, 155–56; heterodox stabilization and, 164–65, 167–68; RGAF investment patterns and policy outcomes, 89, 93, 102; social-market model and, 128–30; state-owned enterprises (SOEs) and, 107 national strike of 1977 (Peru), 111
National System for the Support of Social Mobilization (SINAMOS), 94–96
National Tripartite Commission, 130–31
National Union Party (UNO) (Peru), 69–70, 77, 80 neoconservatism: social-market model and, 126–27; Southern Cone countries, 119–20 neoliberalism: bureaucratic autonomy, 203–5; economic and planning institutions, renovation of, 199–203; economic recovery and structural reform, neoliberalism (continued)
179–223; first-phase market reforms, 183–88; military resurgence and market reform, 182–83; “new institutionalism” and, 4; second-phase market reforms, 205–21; state streamlining and, 196–99; Washington Consensus and, 2n. 2, 179–82 neostructuralism: economic stabilization and, 152–75; García regime and, 160–65; heterodox stabilization and, 153 new institutionalism: Latin American economic development and, 4; policy outcomes and, 35–39
New Public Management paradigm, 187n. 7; Peruvian economic reform and, 8–11; state economic and planning institutions and, 38–39
Nissan assembly plant, 172
Nixon administration, 111
North, Douglass, 4, 6, 22, 36, 226
North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), state economic and planning institutions and, 37
Nuñes, Edson de Oliveira, 35, 63, 93, 180
Obando, Enrique, 90, 172, 183
Obando, Hugo M., 99n. 13, 101–2
O’Donnell, Guillermo, 41, 85
Odría, Manuel, 59, 61, 69–70 oil price hikes: causes of, 109–15; foreign borrowing and, 27–28 oil reserves: Peruvian capital formation and, 99; RGAF investment in, policy outcomes and, 100–104; sluggish performance of, 109–15; social-market model and, 122–23, 136–37 Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), New Public Management paradigm and, 38n. 6
Organization of American States (OAS), IDB tax mission (Peru) and, 76n. 24 Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), RGAF and, 108 organized interests, state ties to, 6
Orlandini, Javier Alva, 131 orthodox adjustment strategies, Peruvian difficulties with, 14–17
Ortiz de Zevallos, Felipe, 15–17, 112, 163
Otro sendero, El (de Soto), 173
Palacios, Rosa María, 198n. 15, 242
Paniagua, Valentín, 216
Paraguay: import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies, 55; neoconservatism in, 119
Paredes, Carlos E., 73, 75, 99, 107–9, 122, 124, 141, 183–84, 186
Paris Club, 144, 186, 193
Parodi, Carlos, 244
Pascó-Font, Alberto, 73, 99, 105, 107–9, 122, 124, 141
Pastor, Manuel, 9, 43, 153, 184, 206, 237, 244 patron-client networks (see also clientelism, Brazilian market reforms and): bureaucratic autonomy and, 34–35; in García administration, 154n. 4
Payne, James L., 72 peak associations, Peruvian military junta and, 88
Pease, Henry, 87, 90, 95
pensions, Peruvian investments in, 244–45
Peres, Wilson, 243, 245
Pérez, Carlos Andrés, Washington Consensus and, 2n. 2
Peréz de Cuéllar, Javier, 211, 214, 216n. 30
Perón, Juan, 39n. 8, 169–70, 247
Perry, Guillermo, 2, 22, 26, 31, 34–36, 44n. 12, 47, 226
Peru: case study, parameters for, 8–11; economic development patterns in, 9–11; fiscal crisis and military coup, 73–80; import-substitution industrialization (ISI) policies, 55–57; market reform in, 228–34; state intervention in, 57–62; state streamlining in, 49–51
Peruvian Communist Party (PCP), 94, 125; American Popular Revolutionary Alliance (APRA), coalition with, 124–25, 165
Peterson, George, 242
Petroperu, 105, 107–8, 128, 133, 193
Pettinato, Stefano, 48
Pinochet, Augusto (general), 111, 210
“Plan for Economic Stabilization and Growth,” 183
“Plan Incá,” 106

Policy outcomes: bureaucratic autonomy and, 31–35, 204–5; crisis and policy fragmentation, 143–47; economic and planning institutions and, 35–39; growth and investment flows and, 19–22; heterodox stabilization, 168–73; institutional variables and, 31–44; interest intermediation and, 41–43; leadership coalitions and, 39–41; RGAF public-sector investment and, 96–104

Political coalitions: balance of power in state institutions and, 64–65; civil society under RGAF and, 11–17, 94–96; Fujimori and, 182–83; neocorporalist reform and, 155–56; Peruvian development and, 68–73; social-market reforms and, 121–25, 130; stability and characteristics of, 6

Political party–congress–executive axis: bureaucratic autonomy under Fujimori and weakening of, 203–5; civil society under RGAF and, 94–96; development coalitions and, 69–73; executive insulation and, 87–88; Fujimori’s electoral defeat and, 213–18; Fujimori’s suspension of, 179, 187–88; in García administration, 156–57; heterodox stabilization in Peru and, 153–54; interest intermediation and, 42–43, 130–31; market-reform legacy and, 232; Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 65–68, 74–80; second-phase market reforms and, 209–13; social-market reforms and, 130

Pollitt, Christopher, 8

Popular Action (AP) party (Peru), 61, 76, 80, 94, 121, 150; AP-PC coalition, 69–72; AP-PPC coalition, 124–25, 129–31, 165; Fujimori’s second-phase market reforms and, 210

Popular Christian Party (PPC) (Peru), 121, 129–31, 173; electoral politics and, 217–18; Fujimori’s second-phase market reforms and, 210–11

Portocarerro, Felipe Maisch, 101–2, 136
Portocarerro, Felipe Suárez, 244

PPC. See Popular Christian Party (PPC) (Peru)

Prado administration, 61, 73, 105

PRI. See Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI)

Private sector: civil society and, 94–96; East Asian development model and, 23; García’s “social concertación” strategy and, 158–59; indirect state intervention and, 26–28; Peruvian appeasement of, 64–68, 75–80, 225; Peruvian decline in, 109–15; RGAF and, 86, 94–96; second-phase market reforms and, 56, 207–9; social-market reforms and, 134–35; state relations with, 27, 59–62, 84; tax reforms favoring, 104n. 15; trade liberalization and, 138–40

Privatization: bureaucratic autonomy and, 34–35; as debt shock remedy, 29–31; Fujimori’s initiatives toward, 192–93; low-income participation in, 195–96; market-completing reforms and, 240–42; social-market model and, 131–35; of state-owned enterprises (SOEs), 112–13

Productive capacity: heterodox stabilization and increase in, 161; strategies for enhancing, 244 professionalization of bureaucracies, autonomy and, 34–35 Program to Modernize the Public Administration, 198, 202 protectionism: Fujimori’s trade policies and, 190; Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 76n. 23 Przeworski, Adam, 7, 9, 22, 46, 220, 226, 232 public sector: accountability mechanisms for, 233–34; Argentinian market reform and, 48–49; autonomous agencies in, 6–7; Brazilian market reforms and, 47–48; debt shocks and, 22–31, 144–47; direct state intervention policies and, 23–26; economic development and role of, 5–6, 8–11, 19–22; employment and wage patterns (Peru), 91; expansion of, 58–59, 67–68, 76–80; Fujimori’s streamlining of, 196–99; gross domestic product (GDP), share of, 5, 18–22; gross fixed investment (GFI) and, 97–99; heterodox stabilization and decline of, 163, 171–73; international comparisons of, 19; layoffs in, 112–13; macroeconomic stabilization failures and, 109–13; Peruvian state capitalism and, 84; post-crisis declines in investment in, 45–51; privatization of, 34–35; RGAF capital formation and, 96–104; RGAF policy outcomes and investment in, 86–87, 90–93, 100–104
QueHacer, 125n. 8
Quijano, Anibal, 83
racial issues, Peruvian electoral politics and, 114–15
Ragin, Charles, 11
Reagan administration, 144n. 23
reform coalitions: bureaucratic professionalization and, 34–35; state economic and planning institutions and, 36–39
Reid, Gary, 38
Reid, Michael, 75–76, 122, 133
Remmer, Karen, 28, 31
research methodology, Peruvian economic reforms, 11–17
Revolutionary Government of the Armed Forces (RGAF) (Peru), 83–115 (see also military forces); action plan of, 183; bureaucratic reforms by, 88–93; capital formation and, 96–104; historical assessment of, 113–15; insulation of executive by, 87–88, 180–81; leadership coalitions, 129–30; state-owned enterprises (SOEs) under, 106–9; state vis-à-vis civil society and, 93–96
Rights Accumulation Program (IMF), 193
Rivera, Iván, 236n. 6, 238n. 8
“road philosophy,” Peruvian political coalitions and, 70
Roberts, Kenneth, 182, 212, 242
Robles, Marcos, 69
Roca, Leonie, 198n. 15, 242
Rodrigo Franco Command, 172
Rodríguez, Martha, 202, 244
Rodriguez Pastor, Carlos, 144
Rodrik, Dani, 4
Romero-Raffo business conglomerate, 145n. 24, 148
Rossini, Renzo, 75
Rothrock, Van E., 66–67
Rudolph, James, 103
Rueschemeyer, Dietrich, 22, 33
rule of law, economic reform and, 233–34
Russia, fiscal crisis in, 213
Sachs, Jeffrey, 29, 183–84, 231, 234
Sagasti, Francisco, 238
salary differentials: economic and planning institutions, 202n. 17; privatization and social-market reforms, 134; in public and private sector, 66
Salazar, Carlos, 234n. 4
Salinas, Carlos (Mexican president), 86, 204
Sanborn, Cynthia, 80, 88, 121, 149, 154, 181
Sánchez, Fernando, 105
Sánchez, Pedro, 192, 240
Saulnier, Alfred H., 67, 84, 105, 107, 113, 128 savings rates, market reforms and, 46
Schady, Norbert, 212
Schmidt, Gregory, 211, 219
Schmidt-Hebbel, Klaus, 238
Schneider, Ben Ross, 28, 35, 38, 47
Schurman, Rachel, 8, 46, 237
Schedlowksy, Daniel M., 126, 139, 142, 243
Scully, Timothy, 42, 43, 47, 211, 232
Scurrah, Martin, 89, 91–92
Second Congress for Industrialists, 94 second-phase market reforms: economic and planning institutions and, 38–39; Fujimori’s political strategy for, 182, 205–21; import-substitution industrialization (ISI) and, 56; interest intermediation and, 209–13; leadership coalitions and, 207–9; Peru, 50–51
Seddon, Jessica, 242
Selowsky, Marcelo, 25
Sen, Amartya, 249
Sendero Luminoso, 125, 147–49, 156, 163–64, 172–73, 179, 188. See also guerrilla violence service-industries investment, 243
Sheahan, John, 58, 104, 138, 142, 152–53, 190, 237, 243, 246
Shepherd, Geoffrey, 8, 35, 203, 205 short-term stabilization policies, privatization and, 30
Shugart, Matthew, 210
Siderperu, 105
Sikkink, Kathryn, 6, 22, 35, 40, 56, 61, 93, 151
Silva, Eduardo, 8, 238
Silva, Patricio, 47
Silva Ruete, Javier, 113, 122–23, 135, 138
Simonsen, Mario Henrique, 5, 23, 26, 219
SIN. See National Intelligence Service (SIN)
SINAMOS. See National System for the Support of Social Mobilization (SINAMOS)
Skocpol, Theda, 22, 31, 33
Slemrod, Joel, 5, 224
Smith, Peter, 11
“social concertación” strategy, 158–68
Socialismo y Participación, 160n. 11 social-market model (see also market reform): bureaucratic autonomy and, 127–28; capital formation and, 135–37; economic and planning institutions and, 128–29; electoral politics and, 147–49; implementation issues, 127–31; interest intermediation and, 130–31; leadership coalitions and, 129–30; legacy of, 149–51; macropolicy trends, 140–43; Peruvian political economy and, 121–25; Peruvian-regional comparisons, 119–20; privatization efforts and, 131–35; second Belaúnde regime and, 125–26; trade liberalization and, 138–40 social policy: bureaucratic autonomy and, 33–35; economic development and, 80, 244–49; heterodox stabilization and role of, 169–70
Social Property law, 123
Social Security Administration (ESSALUD), 201 socioeconomic conditions: civil society and, 93–96; dependency theory and, 82–84; economic reform and adjustment of, 111–15, 244–45; fiscal crisis and, 79–80; Fujimori’s reforms for, 194–96, 241–42; heterodox stabilization and, 171–73; Peruvian National Development Plan and, 97–99; RGAF investment patterns and policy outcomes, 100–104; second-phase market reforms and, 218–21; social-market model and infrastructure investment, 136–37
Southern Cone Common Market. See MERCOSUR
Southern Cone region, Peruvian social-market model and, 119–20
Southern Peru Copper Corporation, 74, 78
Soviet Union, Peruvian relations with, 111
Stallings, Barbara, 26, 29, 58, 63, 75, 77, 82, 109, 120, 243, 245
Standard Oil of New Jersey, 74 state (see also direct state intervention; economic and planning institutions):
state (continued)
bureaucratic autonomy and, 32–35; capital formation and, 96–104; capitalism and, 82–115; Chilean market reforms and, 46–47; civil society vis-à-vis, 93–96; dependency and capitalism in Peru and, 82–84; direct state intervention, 23–26; downsizing of, 22, 44–51, 241–42, 247–49; entrepreneurial role of, 104–9; Fujimori’s reconstruction of, 180–82, 196–205, 212–13; heterodox stabilization and, 154–59, 167–68, 175; indirect state intervention, 26–28; internal political reforms and, 29; market reforms and retreat of, 22, 28–31, 226–27; neoliberalism and reconstruction of, 179–223; Peruvian economic reforms and role of, 4–8, 10–11, 14–17, 57–62, 228–32; Peruvian fiscal crisis and expansion of, 73–80; political economy and intervention by, 22–28; privatization initiatives, 131–35; RGAF policy outcomes, 86–87, 100–104; social-market model and, 121–25, 131–35; state-market debate, 18–52; time-series analysis, 5 state-capital-labor axis: Fujimori’s second-phase market reforms and, 209–13; in Garcia administration, 156–57; interest intermediation and, 42–43; market-reform coalitions, 40–41 state-owned enterprises (SOEs): GDP share, 19–22, 23–26, 45; heterodox stabilization and, 167–68; Peruvian economic reforms and, 28, 66–68, 225; Peruvian National Development Plan and, 97–99; political-economic role of, 105–9; privatization and curbing of, 30, 111–12, 131–35, 192–93; RGAF regime and, 89–90; role of, in economic development, 6; social-market model and reform of, 143; streamlining by Fujimori of, 186, 197–99 state-society relations, market reforms and, 43–44 Stepan, Alfred, 35, 41, 88, 96n. 10, 169 Stiglitz, Joseph, 46 stock divestitures (see also investment strategies): heterodox stabilization and, 163n. 14; Peruvian state-owned enterprises (SOEs), 112–13; privatization and social-market reforms, 133 Stokes, Susan, 170, 188, 211–12 Stolp, Chandler, 45 structural adjustments, state streamlining and economic reconstruction, 44–51 Sulmont, Denis, 72–73 SUNAT. See Superintendency for National Tax Administration (SUNAT) Superintendency for National Customs (SUNAD), 200 Superintendency for National Tax Administration (SUNAT), 191, 200 Superintendency for the Administration of Private Pension Funds (SAFP), 200 Superintendency of Banking and Insurance (SBS), 200 Supervisory Board for Private Investment in Telecommunications (OSPITEL), 200–201 Szekely, Miguel, 243 Tanaka, Martin, 211, 214, 246 Tantalean, Javier, 160n. 11 tariffs: competitive strategies for, 237; Fujimori’s trade liberalization and, 189–90; hyperinflation management and, 186; Peruvian elimination of licenses, 59; Peruvian rates for import tariffs, 58; RGAF policy outcomes and, 103–4; social-market trade liberalization and, 140; trade surpluses and import tariffs, 29 tax revenues: debt crisis and, 144; economic and planning institutions for, 200; first-phase market reforms and, 184; fiscal restructuring and, 76–78, 191; Garcia regime and decline of, 161–63, 171–73; RGAF policy outcomes and, 104 technocratic class: “dynamo group” of Belaúnde, 155; Fujimori’s links to, 220–21; García’s coalition with, 155; heterodox stabilization and insulation of, 169–70; INP and, 89; interest inter-mediation and, 42–43; leadership coalitions with, 40–41, 80; neostructuralist reform and, 155–56; RGAF and, 87–88, 92–93, 120; salary differentials in, 66, 154; social-market model and, 122
Temporary Income Support Program (PAIT), 158
Tendler, Judith, 22
“10 percent solution” for debt service (Peru), 159–60
Thomas, Jim, 210
Thorp, Rosemary, 59n. 4, 74, 108, 191, 213
Tineo, Luis, 46
Toledo, Alejandro, 15–17, 181, 212, 214–18, 221, 232–34, 240–42
Topik, Steven, 62
trade policies: competitive reform strategies, 237; debt servicing and, 143–47; economic and planning institutions and, 37–39; Fujimori’s liberalization of, 189–90; heterodox stabilization and, 171–73; market-completing reforms, 240–42; Peruvian market reforms and, 50–51, 242–44; RGAF policy outcomes and, 103; social-market model and, 138–40 trade surpluses, debt shocks and use of, 29
TransAndean oil pipeline, 101, 122
Trebat, Thomas, 108 triple alliance: economic policy and, 39–41; social-market model and, 129–30
Tupac Amaru Revolutionary Movement, 172
Ugarie, Mayen, 202, 231
Ulloa, Manuel, 125–26, 130, 133, 141–42, 145n. 25 unilateral default, financial crises and, 143 Union for Peru (UPP), 211
union groups (see also labor coalitions): Fujimori’s second-phase market reforms and, 209–13; Peruvian economic development and, 72–73
United Left (IU) coalition, 148–49; APRA and, 156–57, 164–65; FREDEMO coalition and, 173
United Nations Industrial Development Organization, 138n. 19
United States: Peruvian fiscal crisis and, 74–80; public-spending share of GDP, 24; support for García in, 166
Uruguay, neoconservatism in, 120
U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), 208
U.S. Federal Reserve Bank, 27, 122
Valderrama, José, 244, 248
Vallenas, Silvia, 112 value-added tax (VAT): Chilean exports and, 237–38; Fujimori’s fiscal restructuring and, 191
Vargas, Getúlio (Brazilian president), 34, 39n. 8, 63, 92
Vargas Llosa, Mario, 173–74, 182, 214
Vásquez, Enrique, 244–45
Velarde, Julio, 202, 244
Velasco, Andrés, 7, 29, 46, 237
Velasco Alvarado, Juan, 127, 152; García regime compared with, 160–62; industrial development under, 93–94, 96–100, 103–4; military coalition with, 85, 87; social-market model and, 122–23; state-owned enterprises (SOEs) and, 106, 109, 111; trade liberalization and, 138
Vernon, Raymond, 23, 107
vertical integration, trade liberalization and, 138–40
Vial, Joaquín, 231, 234
Vigier, María Elena, 158
Vigier, Pierre, 160n. 11
Wade, Robert, 23, 224 wage and price controls: as debt shock response, 29; heterodox approach to, 152–54; heterodox stabilization and, 160–65; social-market model and, 141–43 wage patterns, RGAF public-sector expansion, 90–91
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Term</th>
<th>Page Numbers</th>
<th>Index References</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Washington Consensus, 2; debt shocks and adoption of, 30–31; economic and planning institutions and, 36; Fujimori’s economic policies and, 15, 179–82, 184–88, 231–32; policy agendas and, 7; state’s role in reform and, 46–51, 226–27; state streamlining and economic reconstruction and, 44–51</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weberian theory, bureaucratic autonomy and, 33</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weyland, Kurt, 47</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilkins, John, 7, 34, 205</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Williamson, John, 2, 23, 30, 46, 179</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Williamson, Oliver, 4, 6, 22, 36, 226</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Willis, Eliza, 6, 33–34, 242</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, James, 86, 137, 241</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winer, Mark, 45</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wise, Carol, 9, 35, 43, 86, 137, 190, 206, 237, 241, 244, 246</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>within-case analysis, Peruvian economic reforms, 11–17</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodman, Arthur, 207n. 20</td>
<td></td>
<td>worker ownership, under Peruvian military regime, 86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>worker ownership, under Peruvian military regime, 86</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>World Bank, 4, 23–24, 30, 82; debt shock remedies of, 29, 193; economic performance analysis, 5; “New Public Management” paradigm, 38; Peruvian economic stabilization effort and, 166n. 19; Peruvian trade liberalization and, 138n. 19; privatization and social-market reforms and, 133; second-phase Peruvian market reforms and, 218</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>World Trade Organization (WTO), state economic and planning institutions and, 37</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woy-Hazleton, Sandra, 131, 147</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WR Grace Company, 75–76</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yarrow, George, 132</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zavala, Verónica, 192, 240</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zysman, John, 39n. 7, 153n. 2</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>