

Contents

| | |
|--|-----------|
| INTRODUCTION | 1 |
| Using This Book | 2 |
| Re-Imagining What It Means to Be a Language Teacher | 3 |
| Solving Common Teaching Problems | 10 |
| Setting Aside Distractions to Language Teaching | 15 |
| <hr/> | |
| CHAPTER 1: SETTING SPECIFIC LANGUAGE GOALS | 17 |
| Using Specific Language Goals as the Motivation for Any Given Lesson | 18 |
| Setting Specific Language Goals: Rationale and Examples | 18 |
| Reverse-Engineering Teachers' Goals from Students' Performance | 19 |
| Setting Goals According to Students' True Language Needs | 23 |
| Overcoming Distractions that Divert Attention from Setting Goals | 26 |
| <hr/> | |
| CHAPTER 2: ANALYZING STUDENT NEEDS | 29 |
| Facing the Problem of Learner Errors | 30 |
| Implementing a Solution—Diagnosing Learner Errors | 31 |
| Using a Theoretical Framework to Model Learner Progress | 33 |
| Creating Needs Analysis Plans for One-on-One Tutoring, Small Group Tutorials, and More Formal Classes | 36 |
| <hr/> | |
| CHAPTER 3: MOVING BEYOND CHOOSING THE RIGHT ACTIVITIES | 49 |
| Creating Lesson Plans vs. Lesson Sequences | 50 |
| Understanding the Teacher's Role in Goal-Driven Lesson Planning | 52 |
| Revitalizing the ESL Tutoring Session | 54 |
| Seeing Goal-Driven Lesson Planning at a Glance | 56 |
| Assessing Lesson Plans: A Checklist | 62 |
| Using a Lesson-Planning Template: Scripting the Language of Instruction | 63 |
| <hr/> | |
| CHAPTER 4: TEACHING LANGUAGE | 69 |
| Understanding the Elements of Teaching ESL: What's Required? | 70 |
| Moving from Implicit to Explicit Language Knowledge: Making Sense of Typical Student Errors | 71 |
| Moving from Explicit Knowledge to Pedagogical Applications: Beyond "It Just Sounds Right That Way" | 75 |
| Preparing Lessons on New (to You) Grammar Topics | 79 |
| Assessing Grammar Books for Classroom Use | 80 |

| | |
|---|------------|
| CHAPTER 5: RESPONDING TO STUDENT ERRORS | 85 |
| Considering a Rationale for Corrective Feedback | 86 |
| Reviewing Historical Approaches to Student Errors and Corrective Feedback in SLA | 86 |
| Examining Current Views on Corrective Feedback | 87 |
| Developing a Principled Approach to Corrective Feedback | 90 |
| Implementing the Teacher-Student Partnership and Working toward Learner Independence | 95 |
| <hr/> | |
| CHAPTER 6: ASSESSING STUDENT PROGRESS | 101 |
| Viewing Assessment as the Natural Outcome of Goal-Driven Lesson Planning | 102 |
| Understanding the Reciprocal Nature of Language Goals and Assessment | 104 |
| Reconsidering Different Kinds of Assessments and Their Role in Lesson Planning | 104 |
| Addressing the Value and Place of Assessment in Ungraded Courses and in Tutoring Situations | 108 |
| Revisiting Assessment at the Beginning and End of the Course | 109 |
| <hr/> | |
| CHAPTER 7: INTERACTION IN THE GOAL-DRIVEN CLASSROOM | 111 |
| Moving Beyond “Let’s Just Get Them Talking” | 112 |
| Interacting: Teacher to Student Talk | 112 |
| Interacting: Student to Teacher Talk | 115 |
| Interacting: Student to Student Talk | 116 |
| <hr/> | |
| CHAPTER 8: MANAGING THE GOAL-DRIVEN CLASSROOM | 123 |
| Choosing Appropriate Activities and Materials | 124 |
| Maximizing Blackboard Use | 130 |
| Using Teacher Tools for Classroom Management | 133 |
| Real-Time Decision-Making for Teacher and Tutors | 135 |
| <hr/> | |
| A FINAL NOTE | 137 |
| REFERENCES | 139 |