

Index

- Academic register, 7, 136
African-American Vernacular English, 207
Anzaldúa, G., 209–210, 214–215, 217, 235
Aristotle, 212
Audience awareness, 58
- Bailey, K. M., 2, 293
Bawarshi, A., 84
Bazerman, C., 189
Beavers, S., 193, 195
Benesch, S., 26, 269
Bennett, G., 7, 146, 328
Berger, J., 51, 55
Berners-Lee, T., 180
Bhatia, V. K., 83
Bloch, J., 7, 180, 181, 184, 195, 328
Blogs, 73–74, 83
Blum, S. D., 184, 189, 195
Book reviews, 72–77, 90–91, 93–99
Brainstorming, 307
- Canagarajah, S., 207, 272
Code-switching / code-meshing, 206–226, 277
- Collaboration: between U.S.-educated multilingual students and teacher candidates, 305–320, in tasks and response system, 16–19
Comma splice, 282, 284
Common Core Standards, 321
Compleat Lexical Tutor, 143–145; KeyWord function of the, 150
Contact zone, 271, 278
Cook, G., 82–83
Corpus: approach to language analysis and learning, 145–146; Corpus of Contemporary American English (COCA), 140–141, 150, 151; culture in corpus, 140–141, 142; Corpus technologies, 140, 150
Costino, K., 7, 12, 72–73
Coxhead, A., 138
Cozza, V., 7, 329
Critical reading, 8; critical literacy, 62–63; examples of writing encourage critical reading, 261–262; developing critical-reading skills 244–262

336 Index

- Crosby, C., 8, 62–63, 184, 308–309, 314, 322, 329
- DasBender, G., 6, 48, 329–330
- de Oliveira, L. C., 7, 109, 111, 127, 128, 129, 330
- Destandau, N., 282, 287, 288–289
- Developmental writing, 238, 306–307
- Digital divide, 200
- Digital storytelling: 7, 178–204; assessment of, 202; criteria for assessment of, 188; individual creation of, 201; Center for Digital Storytelling (Berkeley, California), 181–182, 200; rationale for use of, 178, 188–190; digital storytelling and blogs, 178, 182, 184, 186–187, 190, 193
- Ear learners, 282
- Editing: self-editing 43, 303; workshops in the writing center, 281–304
- Engagement, 195, 272
- English for Academic Purposes (EAP), 1–2, 132, 133–134, 269: skepticism about EAP courses, 271–272
- Errors: ESL-type, 55, 282; oral learner, 282; sentence-level, 282–283, 286n, 297; 305–306, 320
- Expository writing, 82, 108, 127; functional language resources for, 113
- Fadiman, A., 72, 74, 75
- Fair use, 186–187
- Feedback 161, 305, 311–319; timing challenges in, 319–320; instructor, 19–24, 26, 27, 31, 40–41, 42; synchronous, 169–170; video, 7, 162, 163–164, 166–167
- Ferris, D., 6, 11, 13, 16, 26, 27, 62, 169, 292n, 308, 311, 330
- First-Year Composition, 1, 5, 11–15, 70–72, 85, 111, 160–164, 166, 270
- Fisher, H., 78–79, 80–81, 85–86
- Fitzpatrick, R., 28, 161
- Folse, K., 137, 286n
- Formulaic writing: moving students from formulaic to complex, 70–107; five-paragraph essay, 71
- Freewriting, 17, 50
- Freire, P., 238
- Frodesen, J., 283, 297
- Fry, R., 207n
- Gee, J.P., 238
- Genre: Genre awareness, 71, 83, Genre play, 70–107; Genre-based activities, 6–7, 125
- Giordano, J.B., 8, 244–245, 255–256, 330–331
- Goen, S., 283, 284, 285, 287, 289, 290
- Goldschmidt, M., 2n, 8, 305, 306, 312, 320, 331
- Goldstein, L., 26, 27
- Graphic organizers, 307
- Grigoryan, A., 7, 331
- Guerrero, M. C. M., 17, 26, 27
- Hall, J., 269, 271, 272
- Halliday, M. A. K., 112, 117, 123
- Harklau, L., 2, 12, 13, 71, 246, 263, 270
- Harwood, N., 189
- Hassel, H., 8, 245, 331
- Holten, C., 28, 161, 283, 290, 296, 297

- Home language, 1, 13; as deficiency, 208, 210; valuing, 210, 214; writing in, 215–216, 220, 223
- Hull, G. A., 181, 189
- Hybrid writing classes, 160–177
- Hyland, F., 26, 27
- Hyland, K., 26, 27, 147
- Hyon, S., 6–7, 12, 84, 332
- Identity: validating through literacy narratives, 205–226; identity narratives, 233–234, 239; multilingual identities, 205
- Jing (screenshot software), 164–168, 172
- Johns, A. M., 26, 28, 71, 83
- Kluckhohn, C., 111–112
- Kubota, R., 237
- Kuh, G., 142, 144, 149
- Lambert, J., 178–179, 181–182, 183, 186, 201, 202
- Land, R., 63, 64, 66
- Lee, I., 314, 320
- Lexical cohesion, 117–120
- Lexico-grammatical: features of academic language, 132–159; needs of students, 135; skills of L2 writers, 135–139
- Literacy narratives, 7; assignment sheet for, 223–224; benefits of using, 215–219; Digital Archive of Literacy Narratives, 219, 224; revising strategies for, 225–226; self-reflection in, 208–209; validating multilingual identities through, 205–226; writing prompts for, 210–212
- Losey, K.M., 2, 12, 207, 246
- Martin, J. R., 113, 123, 125, 126, 127
- Matsuda, A., 207n, 271
- Matsuda, P. K., 207n, 255, 269, 271
- Matthiessen, C., 112, 117
- Mayer, R. E., 170, 171
- Metacognition, 50, 57, 63, 64, 66; increasing student, through reflective writing, 47–69
- Meyer, J.H. F., 63, 64
- Migrant, 1
- Mikesell, L., 282, 290
- Mini-lessons, 161, 174
- Moreno, R., 170, 171
- Multimodal literacies, 199–200
- Multimodal texts: developing academic writing skills through, 178–204; focusing on, 236
- Narrative writing, 82, 108; See Literacy narratives
- No Child Left Behind (2001), 257–258
- Online courses: cognitive load theory in 170–171; best practices in, 175; high attrition in, 175; negative comments in evaluations of, 171–172; reasons for taking, 169–170; Conference on College Composition and Communication (CCCC) Committee on Best Practices in Online Writing Instruction, 168
- Oral language of bilinguals, 206–207
- Ortmeier-Hooper, C., 2, 270
- Ousey, D. L., 2n, 8, 305, 306, 312, 320, 332
- Pally, M., 269, 270
- Parachute kids/students, 1, 132–134

338 Index

- Paraphrasing in reflective writing, 56
- Peer work: peer conferencing, 212–213; peer critique, 235–236, 238; peer response activities for L2 writers, 27, 37–39; Peer review, 268; in digital storytelling, 201; in response systems, 17, 37–39; and response, 16–19; value of, 16; personal experience and cultural knowledge through, 228–242
- Personal experience, exploring through academic writing, 228–242
- Placement, 67; Analytical Writing Placement (AWP) exam, 109–110, 127–128
- Plagiarism, 180
- Plascencia, K., 80, 81
- Porter, P., 283, 284, 285–286, 287, 289, 290
- Portfolios, 236, 237
- Power verbs, 138, 148, 153
- Public writing, 8, 268
- Reading: Reading: difficulties in, 59–62; comprehension, 23
- Reading-writing relationship, 57–58
- Reflection: reflection and response, 44–46; reflective writing, 47–49; 67–68
- Repetition, 117, 118, 122
- Response: Response systems, 6, 11–46
- Retention, 32
- Revising: coloring in, 213, 225–226; cutting and taping in, 213, 226
- Rhetorical analysis, teaching critical reading, source-based writing and, 244–262
- Ridgway, K. M., 8, 332
- Roberge, M., 2, 12, 215, 263, 270, 282, 293, 314
- Rose, D., 113, 123, 125, 126, 127
- Rose, M., 180, 195, 237, 250, 257–258
- Scaffolding, 7–8, 73, 130, 233, 236–237, 252, 285
- Screen capture software, 164–168; benefits of, 168; use of, 163–164. See also Jing
- Screencasting, 160–177
- Self-editing and response, 43
- Self-efficacy, 307, 308, 315, 316, 317
- Self-evaluation: Guided self-evaluation in response systems, 16, 24–26
- Self-identification, 47, 48
- Self-placement survey, 47–48
- Self-reflection in literacy narratives, 208–209
- Sentence-level errors, 282, 297; reading aloud in checking for, 286n
- Shapiro, S., 8, 332–333
- Shovlin, P., 7, 333
- Siczek, M., 7, 333
- Siegel, M., 2, 12, 246, 263, 270
- Source-based writing, 8, teaching critical reading, rhetorical analysis and, 244–262, 244–262
- Speaking and listening, 17
- Story circles, 186, 201
- Straub, R., 27n, 169
- Stretch courses, 48, 70
- Student engagement, class participation as indicator of, 272. See also Engagement
- Subject-verb agreement, 282, 284
- Summarizing, 56
- Swales, J. M., 82, 84

- Swanson, D., 283, 284, 285, 287, 289, 290
- Systemic-functional linguistic analysis, 108–132; essays and, 111–112; ideational meanings in, 112, 120–124; interpersonal meanings in, 112; lexical cohesion and, 117–120; nominalization in, 124; pedagogical context and, 108–110; rheme in, 113; text analysis and, 112–117; text deconstruction and, 111–124, 129, 130; textual meanings in, 112, 113–120; theme in, 113
- Tan, A., 209–210, 211, 217
- Tardy, C. M., 26
- Tarone, E., 71
- Teacher candidates: collaboration between U.S.-educated multilingual students and, 305–320; surveys of, 326
- Teacher training, pairing with academic writing classes, 305–327
- Teacher-student conferences, 23, 27
- Teaching/learning cycle, 125, 126
- Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL), 134
- Text analysis, 6–7, reflective writing and, 54–55
- Text deconstruction, 108, 111–124, 129, 130
- Text marking, 284, 285–286, 289, 290–291, 295, 301–302
- Textual borrowing, role of, in creating new texts, 190
- Tinto, V., 292, 317
- Transfer, increasing, through reflective writing, 47–69
- Transitional expressions, 133, 138–139
- Transnational students, 1, 132
- Tutoring, 2; one-on-one, 160; outsourcing of, 161; private writing, 242; Professional Learning Center, 307, 322; of students, 278.
- vanDommelen, D., 283, 284, 285–286, 287, 289, 290
- Video feedback, 7; benefits of, 162, 166–167; incorporating personalized, in hybrid writing classes, 160–177; using, 163–164
- Villamil, O.S., 17, 26, 27
- Vocabulary, 7, 162
- Wald, M., 282, 287, 288–289
- Whitt, E., 143, 144, 149
- Word choice, 282–283
- World Englishes, 263–280; course overview, 280; pedagogical context for, 263–264; The Handbook of World Englishes, 264–265
- Writing development: challenge of moving from general and generic to sophisticated text construction, 136–139
- Writing partnerships, 319, 321–322