

////////////////////////////////////// Index

Note: italicized page numbers contain tables or figures

- abstract outlining, 57
- activity phases, TLC: collaborative construction, 74, 81, 82, 83; independent construction, 74, 81, 82, 83; joint construction, 73–74, 78, 79, 80, 81, 83; text deconstruction, 73, 75–78, 83, 85, 106. See also Teaching/Learning Cycle (TLC)
- advocating for better writing instruction, 109–111
- analysis of mentor texts, 35
- analysis of writing tasks, 142–145, 144, 149, 150, 158–159
- analysis writing within disciplines, 151, 154–156, 158, 159, 168, 174; evaluations and, 164; in History class, 160–164, 163, 176; in Information Systems class, 160–164, 165–170, 166, 167, 169, 177; learning when to use, 160, 170, 171, 172, 173
- argument writing within disciplines, 151, 152, 154, 156, 158, 159, 174; claim-reasons framework, 163, 169; in History class, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 176; in Information Systems class, 165–170, 166, 167, 169, 171, 177; learning when to use, 160, 170, 171, 172, 173
- argument writing within genres, 32–34, 69–70. See also argument writing within disciplines
- assessments, 133–134, 209–211; development of, 213–214
- assignment analysis, 137, 142–145, 144, 149, 150, 158–159
- assignments, out-of-class, 140–141, 145, 146
- audience, writing for, 16, 35, 108, 182, 187; within disciplines, 58, 144–145, 190, 191–193; lack of in five-paragraph essay, 71, 91, 192–193
- benchmarks, scaffolding and, 108–109
- Beyond Convention* (Tardy), 145
- Caplan, Nigel, v, 25–26
- CaRS (Create a Research Space), 188, 190
- case analysis genre, 165–170, 166, 167, 169
- cause-and-effect relationships, 161–162
- CCCC (Conference on College Composition and Communication), 208
- CEFR (Common European Framework), 49

- CET (College English Test), 49, 205
- claim-reasons framework, 163, 169
- class culture, 133–134
- “classroom genre,” 28, 29
- closed genres, 183, 184, 186
- collaborative construction phase, TLC, 74, 81, 82, 83. See also Teaching/Learning Cycle (TLC)
- College English Test (CET), 49, 205
- college readiness, 102, 110, 209
- Common Core State Standards, 65, 68–72, 69, 75–76, 207, 213
- Common European Framework (CEFR), 49
- Composition in nineteenth century, 5–6
- “Compositions—Write ‘em Right!” (Pudlowski), 25–26
- Conference on College Composition and Communication. See CCCC
- context, writing within, 13, 16, 130, 145, 190, 192; cultural context and, 44–47, 52–59, 56, 57
- conventions compared to formulas, vii, 28, 30, 37–39, 38, 104, 203, 205
- CR (contrastive rhetoric), 52
- criticisms of five-paragraph essay. See five-paragraph essay, criticisms of
- cultural context of writing, 44–47, 52–59, 56, 57
- demographics, prevalence of five-paragraph essay and, 10–11
- descriptive writing within disciplines, 151, 155, 156, 158, 159, 174; activities for learning when to use, 170, 171, 172, 173; example prompts for, 160; in History class, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 176; in Information Systems class, 165–170, 166, 167, 169, 177
- disciplinary frameworks, 44, 46, 157, 168, 186; genres within, 152–154, 165–170, 166–167, 169, 174, 184, 188, 190; writing for audience and, 58, 145, 190, 191–193. See also analysis writing within disciplines; argument writing within disciplines; descriptive writing within disciplines
- dynamic transfer, 123–125, 127
- Elbow, P., 3
- English Journal, The*, 6, 7, 8
- English theme, 5–6, 9, 12
- ESL writing textbooks, 2–3, 12, 14
- essay: ambiguity of term, 138–139, 152–153, 161; definition, 8, 48; history of, 8–10. See also five-paragraph essay
- evaluations, analysis writing and, 164
- explanatory writing, 68–70, 69
- five-paragraph essay, appeal of: as accessible starting point, 208, 215; develops thesis-driven writing abilities, 93; ease of teaching and grading, 11, 20, 94–95, 181; familiarity,

- 3; history of, 5–12; quick to write, 95; standardized test compatibility, 58, 93, 181–182
- five-paragraph essay, criticisms of:
 boring to teach and read, 130;
 form prioritized over content, 7, 66, 91, 179; homogenizing, 98–99; inflexible, vi, 7, 66;
 lack of consideration of audience, 71, 91, 192–193; lack of preparation for future writing tasks, vii, 141, 146, 178–179, 192–193, 202–203, 209; lack of purpose, 91;
 lack of research supporting effectiveness, 116–119, 118, 181; lack of situatedness, 3, 10; lack of transference, vii, 125, 131, 180; limits creativity and development, 51–52, 66, 119, 208; lowers expectations of student writing, 209; oversimplifying, vii, 52, 66, 90, 102; “starting place” fallacy, 2, 12, 119, 125, 131, 208,
- five-paragraph essay, regional status variations, 42–46
- five-paragraph essay, structure of, vii, 6, 24–25, 35; hook, vi, 19, 190, 192; thesis statement, vi, 19, 126, 181
- formulaic (formal) writing structures, 24–26, 29, 44, 95, 111; compared to conventions, vii, 4, 28, 30, 37–39, 38, 104, 203, 205; distinguishing between templates and genres, 30–39, 31, 32, 35, 38, 203; eight-legged essay, 45; ESL textbooks and, 12; graphic organizers and, 101; inflexibility of, vi, 7, 9, 66; mentor texts and, 33; prioritized over content, 7, 66, 91, 100, 179; in response to chaotic compositions, 6; standardized testing and, 201–203, 205, 217; teaching uses for, 34–36. See also five-paragraph essay
- gatekeeping, writing and, 100–101
- genre, characteristics of, 56, 59, 67–71, 69, 128, 151–154; flexibility, 28, 72, 184–185, 205; purpose-based, 27–28, 32–33, 67, 76, 77, 193; rhetorical classification, 26, 29
- genre, definition of, 27, 28, 67
- genre-based writing instruction, 14–18, 17, 85, 102, 103–104, 107, 216–217; argument writing, 32–34; bridges from five-paragraph essay, 25, 34–38, 35; case analysis and, 165–170, 166, 167, 169; challenges of, 20, 97–98, 182; Common Core State Standards and, 65, 68–72, 69, 75–76; comparison between L1 and L2, 143; within disciplines, 152–154, 184, 188, 190; elementary education and, 65–66; genre analysis, 20; in graduate programs, 183–185; importance of, 187–188; of job search, 195–196; open and closed genres, 183, 184, 186; in pre-enrollment programs for graduate students, 193–194;

- stages, 76–77; templates distinguished from genres, 30–39, 31, 32, 35, 38, 203 “genre innovation,” 215–216
 Gilliland, B., 99, 211, 215, 216 grading. See assessments; rubrics graduate writing, 178–196, 189, 190 graphic organizers for five-paragraph essays, 90, 101

Hamilton: The Revolution (Miranda, McCarter), 36 Harklau, L., 99–100
 high-stakes assessment. See standardized testing Hillocks, G., 95, 98, 99
 History class, writing for, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 176 hook, vi, 19, 190, 192 independent construction phase, TLC, 74, 81, 82, 83. See also Teaching/Learning Cycle (TLC) independent essay (TOEFL®), 205–206, 211. See also TOEFL® inductive writing instruction, 18, 47 informational writing, 68–70, 69

 Information Systems class, writing for, 160–164, 165–170, 166, 167, 169, 171, 177 integrated essay (TOEFL®), 205–206, 211, 213. See also TOEFL® intercultural rhetoric (IR), 52–55 International Education Association study of written composition, 44 international writing instruction and student writing, 2, 42–51, 55, 137–138, 205 internet identity genres, 194, 195 internet resources for mentor texts, 172 intertextuality, 142–143, 182, 185–188 introduction writing, 188–189, 191

 IR (intercultural rhetoric), 52–55, 59
 Iran, writing instruction in, 50 job search genres, 195–196

 Johns, Ann M., 15, 44, 150, 152, 212 joint construction phase, TLC, 18, 73–74, 78, 79, 80, 81, 83. See also Teaching/Learning Cycle (TLC)

 Kachru, Y., 45
 Kaplan, R. B., 45, 52 knowledge display, 154–155, 156, 158, 159, 165–166, 170, 171, 172, 173 knowledge transformation, 154–155, 158, 159, 165, 170, 171, 172, 173

 “large culture,” 53–56
 learning transfer. See transference Leki, I., 107
 lower-level track writing, 89, 93, 98–100, 209 meaningful writing assignments, 12–16, 20, 71, 103–104, 107–108, 110–111

- Melzer, D., 138, 139, 140
 mentor texts: definition, 104;
 discipline classes, within, 150, 159; genre-based writing instruction and, 33–35, 150, 159, 214, 216–217; online resources for, 172; scaffolding and, 103–107, 111; selection of, 105–107; use in TLC, 18, 75–78, 85
 metalanguage, 30, 75, 84, 137
 Michigan Corpus of Upper-level
 Student Papers (MICUSP), 34, 35, 172
 modeling, teacher, 79, 81, 84–85, 128
 model texts. See mentor texts Montaigne, Michel de, 8, 12

 narrative writing, 9, 68, 69–70, 71, 202, 204
 near transfer, 121, 124
 Nichols, Duane, 7, 8–9, 10
 nineteenth century composition, 5–6, 10

 online identity genres, 194, 195 online resources for mentor texts, 172
 open genres, 183, 184, 186 opinion writing, 69–70 organization, signals of, 126 outlining, 34, 56–57, 128, 129 out-of-class assignments, 140–141, 145, 146

 Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers (PARCC), 207–208, 211–213

 Pella, S., 211, 215, 216
 PhD application genres, 196 prompt directives, 144–145 prompt examples for research papers, 140–141
 Pudlowski, Victor, 6, 7, 8–9, 25–26, 28 purpose, writing with: in genres, 27–28, 32–33, 67, 76, 77, 193;
 lack of in five-paragraph essay,
 91; in student writing, 6, 13–14,
 16, 39, 43–44, 47, 182

 “Reading Your Classes” modules, 135–136, 146
 reflective writing, 108–109
 research paper prompt examples, 140–141
 rubrics, 98, 180, 210, 211–213, 214; PARCC, 208; TOEFL®, 206–207
 Ruecker, Todd, viii, 201–202, 204, 208, 217
 Russell, D. R., 28, 58, 120–121, 138

 sample texts. See mentor texts scaffolding (five-paragraph essay as crutch), 90–91; changes in practice, 103–111; misguided intentions, 97–103; scholarship on, 92–93; students directed toward, 93–97
 scaffolding (tools to gradually increase student independence), 92, 103, 110–111, 128, 130; for case analysis, 165; vs. drawing from prior knowledge, 142;
 evaluative criteria as tool, 82;
 inquiry-based learning and,

- 108–109; mentor texts and, 103–107, 111; TLC, 72–74, 79, 81–85, 104
- secondary L2 classroom writing experiences, 90–91
- sequenced writing assignments, 107
- short answer tests, 139, 140, 146
- similarity transfer, 121, 124, 125
- situatedness, 29, 136–137, 145, 182, 186–192, 189, 192, 209; lack of in five-paragraph essay, 3, 10
- “small culture,” 53–56
- source-based writing, 207, 213–214
- standardized testing, 214; analysis of, 211–213; consequences and criticisms of, 201–203, 205, 217; EFL curriculum and, 48–51, 58
- standardized testing, five-paragraph essay and, viii, 16, 58, 93, 95, 181–182, 201–202; changes in practices, 208–217; PARCC, 207–208, 211–213; scholarship on, 203–205; TOEFL®, 50, 205–207, 211, 213, 216
- structure of five-paragraph essay, vi, 19, 24–25, 35, 190, 192; structure of five-paragraph essay, vi–vii, 6, 19, 24–25, 35, 126, 181, 190, 192
- “survival genre,” five-paragraph essay as, 91, 96
- Swales, J.M., 27, 188
- Switzerland, writing instruction variations within, 46
- “Sydney School,” 67
- Systemic-Functional Linguistics (SFL), 27, 67
- take-home tasks, 145, 146, 149
- Tardy, Christine M., 14, 145, 215
- Teaching/Learning Cycle (TLC), 105–107; collaborative construction phase, 74, 81, 82, 83; independent construction phase, 74, 81, 82, 83; joint construction phase, 18, 73–74, 78, 79, 80, 81, 83; principles of, 83–84; scaffolding and, 72–74, 79, 81–85, 104; text deconstruction phase, 73, 75–78, 83, 85, 106
- templates, writing. See formulaic (formal) writing structures
- text analysis, 173, 196
- textbooks, 2–3, 6, 10, 12, 14
- text deconstruction phase, TLC, 73, 75–78, 83, 85, 106. See also Teaching/Learning Cycle (TLC)
- theme, English, 5–6, 9
- thesis statements, vi, 19, 126, 181
- timed writing tasks, 122, 139–141, 143–145, 144, 203, 217
- TLC. See Teaching/Learning Cycle (TLC)
- TOEFL®, 50, 205–207, 211, 213, 216
- transference, 119, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 136–137; five-paragraph essay’s lack of, vii, 125, 131, 180; types of, 120–125
- ungraded writing assignments, 109

-
- voice, writing, 173, 185, 191–193
- Wardle, E., 12, 13
- White, E., 11, 225
- writing for audience. See audience, writing for
- writing instruction, advocating for improvements in, 109–111
- writing instruction, genre-based. See genre-based writing instruction
- writing structures, formal. See formulaic (formal) writing structures
- writing textbooks, 2–3, 6, 10, 12, 14
- writing-to-learn activities, 109
- writing with purpose. See purpose, writing with
- zone of proximal development (ZPD), 92