

Selected Practice Test Vocabulary

The following lists of selected vocabulary include a sampling of the types of vocabulary words that appear in these four MET practice tests and are provided here for study and review purposes. The words were taken from these practice tests, including the test items, listening scripts, and reading passages. All the words presented here are used in one or more of these practice tests, but this does not mean the words appear as test items, nor will they necessarily appear on an actual MET. In other words, this is not to be taken as a comprehensive vocabulary list, but rather a starting point to help with the preparation for these specific practice tests and follow-up review. Each of these vocabulary lists includes words likely to be used by language learners at the corresponding CEFR levels, but keep in mind that many words appear in more than one CEFR level, depending on the specific use or meaning. For this reason, the words are grouped into two sets (A2/B1 level words, and B2/C1 level words), based on the most common meanings and usage.
