

Contents

Introduction	I
CHAPTER I
Setting the Scene: Weimar Berlin, circa 1920	19
I. Historical Legacies and Reformist Beginnings	22
II. Martin Wagner and the New Berlin	36
III. Case Study: Potsdamer Platz	50
CHAPTER 2
Mapping Weimar Society: On Masses, Classes, and White-Collar Workers	60
I. The Rise of the White-Collar Workers	66
II. Weimar Berlin, the Quintessential Modern Metropolis	74
III. Mass Discourse and White-Collar Culture	85
IV. White-Collar Culture and the New Objectivity	91
CHAPTER 3
Organizing the Modern Masses: New Building in Weimar Berlin	98
I. Constructing the New Berlin	104
II. The Project of New Building	112
III. Erich Mendelsohn and the Functionalist Aesthetic	117
IV. Ludwig Hilberseimer and the High-Rise City	124
CHAPTER 4
Walking in the Metropolis: The City Texts of Franz Hessel and Siegfried Kracauer	134
I. Case Study: The Kurfürstendamm	137
II. Hessel's Urban Flaneries	151
III. Kracauer's Urban Hieroglyphics	157

CHAPTER 5

Picturing the New Berlin: Photography, Architecture, and Modern Mass Society	170
I. Architecture and Photography in Weimar Culture	173
II. Case Study: Mossehaus	181
III. Images of Alexanderplatz	196

CHAPTER 6

Deconstructing Modern Subjectivity: On Berlin Alexanderplatz	209
I. Case Study: Alexanderplatz	212
II. On the Streets with Franz Biberkopf	220
III. The City Novel and Weimar Literary Culture	228
IV. Alfred Döblin and Berlin	233

CHAPTER 7

Reconstructing Modern Subjectivity: On Berlin, Symphony of the Big City	242
I. A City Symphony in Five Movements	247
II. Walter Ruttmann and the City Film	255
III. The Spectacle of White-Collar Culture	260
IV. Critical Reception and Filmic Reinterpretation	267

Notes	275
Index of Names	313
Index of Places	317
Index of Titles	321