

Contents

---

1	Early Modern Drama and the Idea of News	1
	Theater and News Culture: A Brief History	2
	The Idea of News	8
	The Proto-Public Sphere	12
	Public Making and Printed News	17
2	The Winter's Tale , News, Truth, and Belief	27
	Shakespeare and News	28
	Autolycus, Broadsheets, and Mercury	34
	The Meaning of a Balladeer on a London Stage in 1610	38
	Ballads, Pamphlets, Monstrous Births, and Singing Fish	45
	Shakespeare and the Problem of Belief	50
	"Times News" and New Forms of Knowledge	54
3	A Game at Chess and the Making of a Theatrical Public	59
	Middleton and News	62
	News from Spain, to Court, to Print, to Stage	64
	Hispanophobia and Hispanophilia	74
	Theater as News Event	78

4	The Staple of News and the Invention of Media Criticism	87
	Jonson and News	88
	The Apostrophized Public	95
	Jonson and the Problem of Interpretation	100
	A News Industry from the Early Modern Near Future	105
	News and Mock News	109
	Epilogue: News Is What They Say It Is	115
	APPENDIX: NAMES FREQUENTLY USED IN BUTTER NEWSBOOKS, 1623–1626	119
	NOTES	121
	BIBLIOGRAPHY	135
	Critical Editions	135
	Contemporary Documents	136
	Contemporary Publications	138
	Secondary Sources	140
	INDEX	151