

Contents

Introduction

- Pulling the Curtain on False Dichotomies:
The Importance of the Theatrical Mainstream in the 1960s 3
James M. Harding and Cindy Rosenthal

I. Re-visioning Broadway

- The Feminine Mystique* Goes to Broadway:
Housewives in 1960s Musical Theater 27
Stacy Wolf

- The Long Shadow of A Raisin in the Sun 52
Harvey Young

- Selling the Ensemble: Hair, Oh! Calcutta!, and Commercial Theater in the Late 1960s 71
Stephen Bottoms

II. Theater Artists' Transformations and Innovations: Stagecraft, Playwriting, and Acting in the 1960s

- Boris Aronson, the Jewish Avant-Garde, and the Transition to Broadway 97
Alisa Solomon

- Paradigm for New Play Development:
The Albee-Barr-Wilder Playwrights Unit 117
David A. Crespy

- From Stanislavski to Grotowski: Rethinking 1960s
Acting Training and Practice 138
Cindy Rosenthal

III. The European Effect: Cultural Gravitas in Popular Theater

- Theater of the Sixties: The German Connection 165
Marvin Carlson

“The Best Contemporary Theatre Is International”:
Plays in Translation on and off Broadway in the 1960s 180
Neil Blackadder

How France Canonized the American Avant-Garde 200
Kate Bredeson

IV. The Rise of Regional Theaters

Alphabet Soup: The Acronymization of the American Theater 231
Dorothy Chansky

Twin Cities Theater in the 1960s: Negotiating the Commercial/Experimental Divide 251
Susannah Engstrom

Making Art and Making Money: Arena Stage in the 1960s 273
Donatella Galella

V. Popular Demonstrations and Innovative Performances

The High Road, the Low Road, and the “Many Roads to Truth”:
Richard Schechner, Peter Brook, and the Royal Shakespeare
Company’s 1966 Production of US 295
James M. Harding

Sixties Secrets: The Beatles, Yoko Ono, and the Borders of Experiment in 1960s Rock Music Performance 315
Graham White

Mass Performance, outside and inside the Democratic National Convention, August 1968 341
Kimberly Jannarone

Afterword

Looking Back at a Funhouse Mirror:
Reflections on Experimental Theater in the Sixties 367
James M. Harding

Contributors 381

Index 385