

Contents

Language in Our Blood Radiclaní Clytus	vii
I. Essays
Red	3
Erasure	4
An Ode to Raccoon	16
Sorrow Songs and Flying Away: Religious Influence on Black Poetry	19
A Needful Thing	29
Crossroads	32
A Supreme Signifier: Etheridge Knight	34
The Devil's Secretary	37
The Blue Machinery of Summer	52
The Blood Work of Language	61
Son of Pop: Floyd D. Tunson's Neo-blues	65
Conundrum	72
Clarence Major's Cosmopolitan Vision	79
Dark Waters	83
The Method of Ai	96

II. Interviews

Collaboration and the Wishbone	107
Three Shades of Past	126
Excursions	138
Getting a Shape	148
The Wolf /Interview	157
Celebration and Confrontation: Walt Whitman	164

III. Commentaries

Notes from a Lost Notebook	179
You Made Me	190
More Than a State of Mind	193
Eros, Words	195
A Letter to Poetry	196
Small Illuminations	199
How Poetry Helps People to Live Their Lives	212
Picking a Lock to the Mind-Jail in the City of Asylum	214
A Note from The Best American Erotic Poems	219
The Mission of American Poets and Writers Visiting the 2008 Kolkata Book Fair	220
Rewriting Dante	221