

Contents

---

Introduction: Disability, Disclosure, and Diversity STEPHANIE L. KERSCHBAUM, LAURA T. EISENMAN, AND JAMES M. JONES	I
I. Identity
Passing, Coming Out, and Other Magical Acts ELLEN SAMUELS	15
A Hybridized Academic Identity: Negotiating a Disability within Academia's Discourse of Ableism SHAHD ALSHAMMARI	25
Perceptions of Disability on a Postsecondary Campus: Implications for Oppression and Human Love EDUARDO BARRAGAN AND EMILY A. NUSBAUM	39
Feminism, Disability, and the Democratic Classroom AMBER KNIGHT	57
Rhetorical Disclosures: The Stakes of Disability Identity in Higher Education TARA WOOD	75
II. Intersectionality
Bodyminds Like Ours: An Autoethnographic Analysis of Graduate School, Disability, and the Politics of Disclosure ANGELA M. CARTER, R. TINA CATANIA, SAM SCHMITT, AND AMANDA SWENSON	95

Complicating “Coming Out”: Disclosing Disability, Gender, and Sexuality in Higher Education 115

RYAN A. MILLER, RICHMOND D. WYNN,
AND KRISTINE W. WEBB

Students with Disabilities in Higher Education: Welfare,
Stigma Management, and Disclosure 135

KATHERINE D. SEELMAN

“Overcoming” in Disability Studies and African American Culture 149

WENDY S. HARBOUR, ROSALIE BOONE,
ELAINE BOURNE HEATH, AND SISLENA G. LEDBETTER

Risking Experience: Disability, Precarity and Disclosure 171

KATE KAUL

III. Representation

Postmodern Madness on Campus: Narrating and Navigating
Mental Difference and Disability 191

BRADLEY LEWIS

Doing Disability with Others 211

REBECCA SANCHEZ

Science Fiction, Affect, and Crip Self-Invention—
Or, How Philip K. Dick Made Me Disabled 227

JOSH LUKIN

Satire, Scholarship, and Sanity; or How to Make Mad Professors 243

THERÍ A. PICKENS

Diagnosing Disability, Disease, and Disorder Online:
Disclosure, Dismay, and Student Research 255

AMY VIDALI