Any idiot can face a crisis.

It's this day-to-day living that wears you out.

Acknowledgments

THIS BOOK HAS occupied me for many years and in that time has encountered obstacles of many kinds, which I shall not rehearse here. It has also been helped along in many ways, of which I mention just a few. The National Endowment for the Humanities and the American Council of Learned Societies both granted fellowships that greatly assisted my research. The Interdisciplinary Humanities Center and Academic Senate at the University of California, Santa Barbara, both gave awards that provided research assistance. Saul Morson generously offered advice and encouragement at an early stage of this project, as did Ruth Scodel at a later one. Christine Maisto, my research assistant, helped to make the following pages clear and readable.
