

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
INTRODUCTION: WHY WE NEED A THEORY OF FEDERALISM	1
CHAPTER 1. WHAT IS FEDERALISM?	7
Two Basic Concepts: Political Identity and Federalism	7
Political Identity	7
Federalism	12
Federalism Distinguished	17
From Consociation	18
From Decentralization	20
From Local Democracy	30
From Democracy in General	33
CHAPTER 2. WHY FEDERALISM? THE TRAGIC ASPECT OF POLITICS	38
The Role of Federalism in the Creation of Regimes	40
The Autocratic Origins of Government	40
The Role of Federalism	43
The Function of Federalism in Ongoing Regimes	48
The View from the Center	50
The View from the Regions	54
The Criteria for Federalism	60
Attitudinal Criteria	61
Structural Criteria	64
CHAPTER 3. FEDERALISM IN POLITICAL SCIENCE	69
Process Federalism	70
Fiscal Federalism	77
The Landscape of Fiscal Federalism	77
Is Fiscal Federalism a Theory of Federalism?	79
Public Choice Theory and Positive Political Theory	86
Riker's Theory of Federalism	86
Other Positive Political Theories and Related Approaches	90

CHAPTER 4. FEDERALISM IN AMERICA	96
The Colonial Period (1604–1776)	97
The Federal Period (1776–1865)	100
The National Period (1865 to the Present)	110
The Evolution of a National Identity	110
Assessing America’s Need for Federalism	115
CHAPTER 5. THE JUDICIAL DOCTRINE OF FEDERALISM	124
The Relevance of Legal Doctrine	124
The Enumerated Powers of Congress	130
The Tenth Amendment and the Political Integrity of States	137
The Eleventh Amendment and Sovereign Immunity	143
CONCLUSION	150
Notes	155
Selected Bibliography	203
Name Index	219
Subject Index	221