

CONTENTS

Introduction	1
PART I: THE TORT SYSTEM'S EARLY RESPONSES TO PRODUCT-CAUSED DISEASES
Chapter 1. The Morning after the Consumer Century	13
Chapter 2. Product-Caused Diseases Confront the Law of the Iron Horse	32
Chapter 3. The First Wave of Challenges to the Individual Causation Requirement	54
PART II: PUBLIC PRODUCTS LITIGATION AS A RESPONSE TO REGULATORY FAILURE
Chapter 4. The Seeds of Government-Sponsored Litigation	83
Chapter 5. A Failure of Democratic Processes? Legislative Responses to the Public Health Problems Caused by Tobacco and Lead Pigment	104
Chapter 6. The Government as Plaintiff: Parens Patriae Actions against Tobacco and Gun Manufacturers	120
Chapter 7. Judicial Rejection of Recovery for Collective Harm: Public Nuisance and the Rhode Island Paint Litigation	138
PART III: A CRITIQUE OF PUBLIC PRODUCTS LITIGATION
Chapter 8. Do Litigation Remedies Cure Product-Caused Public Health Problems?	171
Chapter 9. Impersonating the Legislature: State Attorneys General and Parens Patriae Products Litigation	192
Conclusion	215
Notes	231
Selected Bibliography	281
Index	299